PREFACE

BEFORE the early part of the seventeenth century St John's College possessed hardly any manuscripts. The earliest Register of the College, containing inventories of its furniture and books, notices in the Chapel a certain number of manuscript service-books (which hardly come into account here) but in the Library, so far as I can see, only two volumes which are likely to have been manuscripts, viz. :

de gestis Barlaam et Iosaphat in pergameno.
cuiusdam compilatio de gestis Christi in pergameno.

Three other books described as "in pergameno" were probably printed volumes, namely,

Novum Testamentum grece et latine.
Erasmus in Novum Testamentum.
Officia Ciceronis.

The three Hebrew manuscripts given by Richard Horne in 1546 (nos. 1-3 in the Catalogue) are apparently the patriarchs of the manuscript collection as it now exists.

The original home of the College Library was on the first floor, south of the gate of entrance to the First Court. Quite early in the seventeenth century, projects for a new and larger Library building were being discussed ; as early, probably, as 1615. But it was not until 1624 that the munificent benefaction (at first anonymous) of John Williams, then Bishop of Lincoln and Lord Keeper, enabled the College to undertake the erection of the present splendid building in the Third Court. The furnishing of the new Library and the transfer of the books seem to have been completed in 1628.

It was apparently seven years later, in 1635, that the College actually received, in one gift, the principal portion of its manuscript collection. I say "actually received" because there is evidence to show that for some twenty years the gift had been promised. There are letters from William Crashaw¹ (the Puritan divine, father of Richard Crashaw the poet) which point to this conclusion. They were printed by Mr R. F. Scott, now Master, in the College magazine—the Eagle—in December 1901. Crashaw writing to Dr Gwynn, Master, on Mar. 23, 161⁴/₁₆, says that he hopes to visit

Cambridge and to further "that good motion his lordship made to me for our librarye....For the present business you shall be furnished from me with 3000 volumes.....and with some 500 manuscript volumes (whereof I wonder you have none in your librarye) some very ancient, some very rare, and many never printed." In May 1615 he says "This noble Earl persists in his honourable intendment towards our librarye...and you are like shortly to receive a faire parcell of bookes, some ancient manuscripts and others printed." On June 30, 1615, "I have delivered alreadye into Southampton house almost 200 volumes of Manuscripts in Greeke, Lattine, Englishe and frenche, and about 2000 printed books, whereof you have not one in your librarye." And lastly, three years later, on June 11, 1618 he writes "I was with my Lord of Southampton, who willed me to learne how you proceeded with your librarye, for that he desired first to sende you the books he formerly promised, and after to do more as he findes your occasions and his owne intendments and abilitie to corresponde."

The Earl of Southampton who figures in these letters is the famous Henry Wriothesley, the friend and patron of Shakespeare (b. 1573, d. 1624), who had been admitted to the College in 1585 when a boy of twelve years old. It is a fair inference from the letters that he purchased a considerable portion of William Crashaw's library: probably it was owing to the lack of proper accommodation for the books in the College that transmission of them was delayed. In August 1626 his widow the Countess of Southampton writes to Dr Gwynn (Mayor in C. A. S. Comm. II, p. 60) in the following terms with regard to her late husband: "having found that in his life Tyme, out of his own noble Inclination he had designed certain books unto the new Library of your House, w^{ch} have been all this tyme carefully by me preserved, entire, I hope, in number (for the Catalogue is with you and not with me) and safe from harme. Now soe soone as notice could be taken that the place grew to a readines to receive them, I have herewithall sent them unto you as a testimony of the good will and affection borne unto your House from hence."

The letter of thanks from the College follows (l. c., p. 61).

Nine years later, in April of 1635, we find the College writing again to the Countess and also to the Earl of Southampton (Mayor's Baker, pp. 510, 11) to thank them for a further gift of books. And it would seem that the books now given were manuscripts. The letter to the Earl, which is in Latin, has the words "ita scilicet manuscriptum hic apud nos invenimus, ita Praesentem te intuemur in Monumento puta non tam antiquorum Patrum quam immortalis tui gloriae nuper admodum a nobis excepto." To the Countess they say: "Having received youre most noble gift of Manuscripts which are already imprinted in our hearts wee desire now to testifie our due thankfulness in this short manuscript¹."

¹ This letter, not printed in full by Mayor, has been kindly copied for me by the Master.

It seems, then, that the course of events was this: Earl Henry purchased both manuscripts and printed books from William Crashaw, about the year 1615. Pending the erection of the new Library, they remained at Southampton House until 1626, when the Countess sent to the College the printed books. The manuscripts for some unknown reason were held over until 1635, and then sent as a joint gift from the Countess and Earl Thomas (b. 1607, d. 1667). It is this Earl whose signature Tho. C(omes) S(outhampton) appears in nearly all the volumes and is noted in this Catalogue (as it is in Cowie's) in the form T. C. S. The father's signature Hen. C. S. is found in but one group of volumes, and those late and uninteresting (nos. 385-8). But it was Earl Henry who originated the idea of the gift and is really the great benefactor of the Library.

It is evident—though we hear little or nothing of it from other sources—that Crashaw's collection of books enjoyed a certain celebrity at Cambridge. Mr Bradshaw (Collected Papers, p. 251) says: "From an entry I lately noted in reading through the University accounts for 1614-15, when Dr Samuel Ward was Vice-Chancellor, it seems probable that the Crashaw Collection had some chance of being purchased for the University Library. The entry is as follows:

Item pro itinere Stationariorum London' in examinanda bibliotheca Magistri Crashawe xxs."

Certainly, so far as manuscripts are concerned, it deserved to be widely known and eagerly competed for. The 160 manuscripts which came from it to the College include a very large proportion of the best in the library. Over 150 out of some 270 medieval manuscripts are due to this one source.

The same decade was fruitful in other gifts of manuscripts. Doubtless the erection of a new library proved a stimulus; at any rate we see that in the years 1631-39 valuable accessions came from Edward Benlowes, Hilkiah Croke, Jeremiah Holt, William Beale and Sir Thomas Bendish, and that no subsequent period has a record to be compared with this.

Passing over the names of numerous donors of small groups of volumes, we come to that of the second great enricher of the College library, Thomas Baker (d. 1740), a man who has many other claims to the gratitude of those of his House. Over seventy MSS. were bequeathed by him. A good number of these came to him from Sir Thomas Wagstaffe.

There is a catalogue of Wagstaffe's MSS. in the Oxford Catalogi Manuscriptorum Angliae (1697: II i, 85), in which 48 volumes are enumerated: about a dozen of these (none of them, apparently, of much interest) seem not to have come into Baker's hands.

In 1762 eighteen volumes were given by W. Grove, formerly Fellow. M. Paul Meyer in his most interesting tract on some of the French MSS.

in this library (Romania VIII, 305 sqq.) has traced the history of these in some paragraphs which I will quote in extenso.

“ Enfin, en 1762, un ancien fellow de Saint-John's, W. Grove, enrichit la bibliothèque du collège de huit ouvrages ou recueils, formant 18 volumes, qui, à cause de leur origine, méritent de retenir un instant notre attention. Ce sont les MSS. cotés T 1 à 18. L'un d'entre eux, T 14, porte les armes de l'évêque de Lodève Plantavit de la Pause, l'auteur d'un ouvrage érudit sur les évêques qui l'avaient précédé sur le même siège ; le même MS. et d'autres encore (T 8, 15-18) portent l'ex libris de Charles de Pradel, évêque de Montpellier ; tous enfin ont fait partie de la riche bibliothèque d'un autre évêque de Montpellier, Colbert de Croissi. A la mort de Jean de Plantavit de la Pause (1648), sa bibliothèque fut achetée par son successeur, l'érudit François Bosquet. Devenu évêque de Montpellier (1655), celui-ci transporta dans sa nouvelle résidence sa précieuse collection de livres imprimés et manuscrits, qui, à sa mort (1676), passa à son neveu et successeur Charles de Pradel. Colbert de Croissi, qui succéda (1696) à Charles de Pradel, acheta la bibliothèque de son prédécesseur et l'accrut par de nouvelles acquisitions. Il la légua par testament avec tous ses biens à l'Hôpital général de Montpellier, qui, ne sachant qu'en faire, en fit dresser le catalogue et la mit en vente, en 1740, deux ans après la mort du prélat. Un libraire de Toulouse, nommé Caseneuve, en fit l'acquisition, et sans doute la revendit en détail. C'est de lui, directement ou par intermédiaire, que W. Grove dut acquérir les dix-huit volumes maintenant conservés à Saint-John's. Ces dix-huit volumes, que je vais énumérer selon leur ordre de classement à Saint-John's, sont ainsi décrits dans le catalogue de 1740 :

(II, 447.) Mémoires et actes touchant ceux de la Religion prétendue réformée, commençant par l'Assemblée de Saint-Jean d'Angeli en 1582, et finissant au Synode de Privas en 1611. MS. sur grand papier, beau caractère. Veau, 7 vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T 1-7.

(II, 443.) Le Rational du Divin Office, composé par Guillaume Durand, évêque de Mende, et traduit en français par Jean Gollin (lisez Golein), carme, par le commandement du Roy Charles V, qui vivoit l'an 1379, avec quantité d'enluminures, mignatures, et lettres ornées. MS. en caractère gothique sur vélin, relié en bois, couvert de velours cramoisi. Vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T. 8.

(II, 441.) Divers traités de M. de Marca, savoir 1° De la juridiction ecclésiastique touchant la deposition des évêques. 2° Des appellations comme d'abus. 3° De l'origine et des progrès de la Régale. 4° Des Conciles nationaux et provinciaux. 5° Divers opuscules, mémoires et traités sur différentes matières. MS. sur papier proprement relié en veau fauve. 3 vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T 9-11.

(II, 439.) Recueil d'épîtres de plusieurs papes qui ont tenu le Saint Siège à Avignon Anagni et à Rome, avec des remarques sur lesdites épîtres. MS. sur papier, veau, 2 vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T 12, 13.

(II, 446.) Instruction à (lisez de) la vie mortelle ; c'est comme une histoire universelle en vers français, d'un langage gaulois, sans nom d'auteur. MS. sur vélin en très anciens caractères, maroquin rouge. 1 vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T 14.

(II, 438.) Concilium Parisiense congregatum in Aula Parisiensi episcopali an. 1416, ad decidendum M. Joannis Parvi allegationes supra mortem Ducis Aurelianensis, in concilio Constantiensi damnatus, et in Parlamento Parisiensi. MS. in carta, veau, 4 vol. in-fol.—Saint-John's, T 15-8.

Ces MSS. ne sont pas les seuls de la collection de Colbert de Croïssi qui aient trouvé place sur les rayons d'une bibliothèque anglaise. La perle de cette collection, le volume unique contenant les livres X, XI et XII de la correspondance d'Innocent III, confié par l'évêque Bosquet à Baluze qui le publia, est mentionné dans le catalogue de 1740 (II, 439) et fait actuellement partie de la bibliothèque de M. le comte d'Ashburnham (Appendix no. 98)¹.

The last benefaction to this department of the Library which calls for special notice is the gift, made in 1902 by Lord Peckover of Wisbech, of one of the gems of the famous Fountaine Collection, a Book of Hours which was once the property of the Foundress of the College, the "mother of the King," Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby.

A word as to former catalogues of the collection. One was prepared in 1675, probably for insertion into the Oxford Catalogi of 1697, but, for what reason I know not, never got into print. There are several manuscript copies of it, e.g. Trinity College O. 5. 38, no. 10².

No printed catalogue appeared until the Rev. B. Morgan Cowie, sometime Fellow, and later Dean of Exeter (d. 1900), compiled one which was published in quarto in 1843 by the Cambridge Antiquarian Society. It is in two parts, the first containing descriptions of classes A to H, the second those of classes I to T. The titles of the treatises are largely taken from an old MS. Catalogue in the library. Mr Cowie deals little in description of externals, and gives no estimates of date, but on the other hand supplies a great deal of miscellaneous information as to authors and editions of treatises.

The provision of a catalogue on more modern lines seemed desirable; and I long ago received the kind permission of the Society to compile one. In the course of the work—which was largely done in 1904—I received much kind help from the then Librarian, Dr J. B. Mullinger, as well as from the sub-librarian, Mr Lockhart, and more recently, while I have been revising and completing my descriptions, the present Librarian, Mr J. H. A. Hart, and the staff have earned my cordial thanks for the way in which they have met my frequent demands on them. The Master has also been most kind in assisting my inquiries into the history of the collection.

In its scope and plan the present volume differs in one respect from other catalogues which I have made. I have adopted the plan of separating the more modern manuscripts from those of the medieval period, and have devoted less space to the description of them¹. The medieval books, however, I have treated on the same scale as in my other catalogues, attempting to supply such details with regard to their external aspect, structure, decoration, and contents as will put students into a position to judge of the importance of each. Lists of donors, owners, provenances, and approximate dates have been added, and also a review—somewhat fuller than usual—of the volumes remarkable for their decoration. This last does duty for an index of subjects represented in the miniatures. The general Index is the work of Mr A. Rogers of the University Library.

² Uffenbach's account of the manuscripts will be found at p. 171 of Mayor's edition (Cambridge under Queen Anne).

I have spent many pleasant hours over the manuscripts of St John's College. The publication of this description of them adds the last considerable member to the series of College catalogues which I began in 1895. In the earlier volumes there is, I know, a great deal to correct and to supply: may the defects of the present one prove to be fewer!

M. R. J.

¹ I must apologize for a stupid mistake in this connexion. I notice too late that I have numbered a few of the MSS. twice over. They are nos. 206, 207 (=273-4), 211-213 (=275-8) (H. 3, 4, 8-10). The total number of manuscripts described is thus 502, not 507.

CATALOGUE OF MANUSCRIPTS

1. PARS BIBLIORUM HEBRAICE.

A. 1

Vellum, $12\frac{1}{8} \times 10$, ff. 303, double columns of 24 lines, except the last $4\frac{1}{2}$ leaves, which are in single columns. Cent. xiii (1260) in a fine hand, with vowel points.

Given by R. Horne (Bp of Winchester 1560-1579) in 1546.

Collation: 1^s (wants 1-5) 2^s-5^s 6¹⁰ 7^s-14^s 15⁴ 16^s (wants 1, 2) 17^s-21^s [quires 19-21 ought to precede quire 16] 22^s 23^s 24¹⁰ (wants 10) 25^s-35^s (wants 8) 36^s-39^s.

There are catchwords to a majority of the quires.

At each end is a slip of a xiith cent. Latin gloss on the Pauline Epistles.

It is no. 95 in Kennicott's Dissertatio Generalis. He describes it as written "charactere Hispanico" and dates it early in cent. xv.

Contents :

Genesis, f. 1, beginning imperfectly in ch. vi.

Exodus, f. 46. Leviticus, f. 86.

Numbers xxxi. 22 to Deut. viii. 2, f. 114.

Numbers i.-xxi. 20, f. 136.

Deut. viii. 3 to end, f. 160.

Song of Solomon, 185. Ruth, 188. Lamentations, 190 b.

Ecclesiastes, 194. Esther, 200 b.

Job, 207 b.

Proverbs, 226. 240 b blank.

Lections from the Prophets, 241.

Evidently written or adapted for the use of a Western scholar, very likely a Franciscan, for this order was addicted to the study of Hebrew. The Latin titles of the books are written as headlines in red and blue capitals, and the chapter-numbers in red and blue Roman numerals. There are also pencil notes in Latin of cent. xiii-xiv showing the correspondence of the lections in the Pentateuch with the prophetic and other lections at the end. A later writer has copied these, and seems to have misunderstood them. At Exod. xxv the name Kyngston is pencilled on the lower margin. This is no doubt the John Kingston who owned no. 2.

At the end of Proverbs is a note which Dr I. Abrahams has kindly translated for me :

1. I pointed (and revised) this book for my brother R. Levi on Friday of the Pericope Tešē (July–August) of the year 20 of the sixth thousand (5020). May God make him worthy to study it, that it may not depart from his mouth and from the mouth of his seed henceforth and for ever.
2. I, Samuel Ha-naqdan (the Punctuator).

This is followed by a short Hebrew rhyme.

The date is thus July–August A.D. 1260.

I gather from Dr Abrahams that the punctuation is rather more likely to have been done in France than in England at the above date.

2. PARS BIBLIORUM HEBRAICE.

A. 2

Vellum, $10\frac{7}{10} \times 8\frac{1}{6}$, ff. 146 + 1, double and single columns of 34 lines. Cent. xiii, well written, with vowel points, in a smaller hand than the last. Given by R. Horne in 1546.

Collation: 1 flyleaf, 1^s–12^s 13⁴ 14^s 15^s 16^s 17^s–19^s.

There are slips at each end of the gloss on the Epistles.

On f. 1 at top, in a hand of cent. xv (?), is :

En mihi rex nomen doliumque dedere Johanni, which implies the name John Kingston for a former possessor. See on no 1.

Contents :

1–4 Regum, f. 1. f. 56 b blank.

Jeremiah, f. 57. Isaiah, f. 81. Ezekiel, f. 101.

f. 122 b blank.

The Twelve Prophets, f. 123, ending imperfectly in Mal. iii.

Judges, beginning imperfectly in vii. 14, f. 139.

The Latin headlines and chapter numbers are in red and blue capitals in this MS., exactly as in no. 1.

It is no. *96 in Kennicott, who describes the hand as German and the date as the end of cent. xiv.

3. RABBI SALOMON (RASHI).

A. 3

Vellum, $11\frac{1}{10} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$, ff. 178 + 3, double columns of 47 lines. Cent. xiii (1238) clearly written without vowel points.

Given by Dr Horne in 1546.

Collation: 2 flyleaves, 1^s–11^s 12¹⁰ (wants 10) | 13⁶ 14^s | 15^s–17^s 18² (three left) | 19^s–23^s, one flyleaf.

There are slips at each end from the gloss on the Epistles: and also at the end of this volume part of a leaf of a medical MS. in an Italian hand of cent. xiv.

On the flyleaf is a list of contents, written perhaps over an older one, in cent. xvi.

Rabbi Solomon ben Isaac's (=Rashi's) Comment. super libros.

Josue. Iudicum. Samuelis. 3 librum Regum. Ezechielem. Ier(e)miam.
Isaiam. In prophetas minores. Cantica canticorum. librum Ruth. lamen-tationes Jeremiae. Ecclesiasten. Ester. Psalterium. Proverb. Salomonis.
Daniel. Iob. Paralipomena.

On f. 1a in a hand of cent. xiii is 'liber ebraicus.'

The text begins on f. 1b.

The Latin names of the books commented on appear throughout as head-lines in pencil of cent. xiii, and also, in the Comment on the Psalter, the Latin titles of the Psalms.

On f. 96 is a note: Naaman Aaron f. Mosis says y^b this manuscript is 450 years old. Jul. 30-95 [probably 1695, judging from the writing].

The Librarian, Mr J. H. Hart, has kindly furnished me with some notes to the following effect:

The script is a French hand.

The date is fixed by a note on f. 98a (96) which reads: "I completed this book on the day before the new year at the end of the year of the fifth thousand" = 1238.

On 99a at the foot is a note acknowledging the sale to R. Nathaniel ben R. Jacob of the Commentary on the Prophets and Hagiographa: the sale is of the owner's free will, without compulsion, and is made absolutely: the buyer is empowered to re-sell the book or dispose of it by gift in any way he pleases. The signature to this note is cut by the binder: it is probably Samuel b. Isaac.

The manuscript contains many of the lo'azim or French glosses which are characteristic of Rashi, but are often omitted in the MSS.

4. GUIDO DE BAYSIO ETC.

A. 4

Vellum, 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ × 9 $\frac{1}{8}$, four volumes, ff. 123, 84, 22, 83, double columns of 82 lines, then text and gloss in double columns, text varying, gloss in 92 lines, then double columns of 80 lines. Cent. xiv early, finely written and ornamented, in England.

Given by Will. Marshall, Fellow, in 1625. From Southwell (see below).

2 fo. ul. dic. quod.

Collation: I¹²-8¹² 9¹⁰ 10⁸ 11⁸ (+ 1) | 12¹²-18¹² | 19⁸ 20⁸ 21⁶ | 22¹²-28¹² (wants 12).

 List of tituli follows, and an erased inscription of 9½ lines.

The ornamentation of the book is exceedingly fine. The principal divisions have miniatures and borders, and the smaller initials, often in dragon-forms, are prolonged with bars of gold and colour ending with solidly painted pink and blue foliage. The drawing of the pictures is good but not extremely delicate.

The following are the figured subjects :

1. f. 1. Full border with grotesque figures. Two shields (1) or semee of fleur-de-lys sable. (2) arg. a lion rampant gules among crosslets patee of the second.
 Square miniature representing a Pope seated in chasuble and high green cap, attended by three cardinals. In C. a bookcase with sloping top and four rows of books on it. Locks for the bars on which the chains ran are shown on the end (R.). On R. two doctors are holding gloves.
 Initial, a doctor holding a book, and an attendant. Chequered ground.
 f. 1 b. Christ seated with orb, blessing. Gold ground.
 f. 53 b. Partial border. Two shields. 1. Party per pale azure and gules, a lion rampant argent. 2. Chequer of or and gules, a bend dexter sable, bordered argent.
 Miniature, a king in C., doctors on L., civilians on R.
 f. 73. Border. Miniature. Priest at altar. Cleric contending? with man in red on R.
 f. 101. " " A marriage.
 f. 102 b. " " King in C. Doctor on L. Man on R.
2. vol. 1. Border with shields as on vol. 1. Miniature. Seated Pope, bearded, attended by cardinals, gives book to kneeling man.
 f. 37. Border with shields as on f. 53 of vol. 1. Small picture. Judge between two litigants. Initial. St Margaret crowned, on dragon; she has long cross and book.
 f. 49 b. Shields. 1. Arg. a label of three points gules. 2. Arg. a saltire engrailed sable (obscure) (? for Tiptoft). Initial. Priest at altar, cleric in white repulses man on L.
 f. 67 b. Shields. 1. Argent (obscure). 2. Arg. with bordure engrailed gules.
 Picture. A marriage.
 f. 68 b. Shields. 1. or semee of fleur-de-lys sable, a bend dexter gules. 2. The same with a bend dexter of the field. Picture. A king on L., two litigants on R.

3. f. 1. Border. Shield (held by a wild man) or semee of fleur-de-lys sable within a bordure engrailed gules. Initial. Lecturer at desk : hearers on R.

4. f. 1. Border. Shields. 1. argent. 2. Argent lion rampant gules (as f. 1). Miniature cut out. Initial. Doctor holds up book.

A remarkable decorative initial on f. 2. In this part of the book I think we have a different illuminator, and one of great spirit. The initials of the five divisions have the same subjects as those in vols. 1 and 2, except Lib. II (36), which has initial of St Katharine with wheel and sword standing on Maxentius. The lower border is cut off.

Lib. III, f. 46 b. Shields as on f. 53 (vol. 1). Two admirable lions in the border, and also men fighting.

Lib. IV, f. 60 b. Shields as for Lib. III. Good grotesques.

Lib. V, f. 61 b. Man hanging : deer and dog in border. In the miniature one of the litigants has a white beast coiled round his neck by way of collar.

The shield which occurs most frequently, viz. or semee of fleurs-de-lys sable, was borne by the Mortimers of Attleborough in Norfolk, on whom see Blomefield, vol. I, 510 etc.

The erased inscription reads : Sextus liber decretalium legatus Capitulo | de Suthwell per d. Will. de Gumthorp | canonicum eiusdem ecclesie et prebendarium alterius prebendarum de Northwell vocat Palishall (?) | ad remanendum in libraria eiusd. eccl. ibidem perpetuo per.....qui quidem d. Vellum, $13\frac{2}{5} \times 8\frac{7}{10}$, ff. 143 + 131, two volumes. Cent. xii.

Given by Thomas, Earl of Southampton, and marked T. C. S. (= Thomas, Comes Southampton). These initials will in future suffice (as in Dr Cowie's Catalogue) to distinguish the donor.

Collation: i⁸-xviii⁸ (wants 8) || i⁸-viii⁸ (4 gone) x¹² xi⁸-xvii⁸ (wants 6).

2 fo. I. unius gentis. II. rimis ecclesiis.

Vol. I is from Christ Church, Canterbury, and has the old mark 'V' on f. 1 b. It is beautifully written in the characteristic Christ Church hand of the time, with 29 lines to a page.

Ancient Libraries of Canterbury, p. 51, no. 21, and p. 506.

Vol. II is from the Benedictine Abbey of St Dogmael in Pembrokeshire. It is in double columns of 35 lines in several fine black hands of cent. xiii early.

On f. 1 is a list of contents. On it is noted that vol. I cost 40s. and vol. II 30s. (in cent. xvi).

After the text is a document in double columns in a later hand containing an account of attempted encroachments on the rights of St Dogmael's Abbey in Pembrokeshire by the burgesses of Cardigan, and the successful repulse thereof.

Anno gratie m^o cc^o xl^o secundo regnante christianissimo rege henrico tercio. In ipsa hora passagii sui in pictauiam. Venerabili patre nostro anselmo meneuensi antistite abbate radulfo abbatie sancti dogmaelis de kermeis presidente orta est persecutio valida qualis non fuit ex eo tempore ex quo homines esse ceperunt usque ad tempus illud, contra deum et monasterium S. dogmaelis. Insurrexerunt enim uiri mendaces et dolosi filii belial satellites sathane burgenses uidelicet de kardigan, etc. etc.

fingentes nomina ubi nomen ante ea non erat et dicentes. hiscoyt vochan. quod nomen inauditum erat et rosarium, quod nomen prati nostri est, communam debere esse hominum de cardigan, cum fluminis theyui cuius cursum diuertere non poterunt apertissime inter nos et ipsos diuidat, etc. etc.

The claims were investigated "accitis magnatibus et prudentibus uidelicet. d. Ricardo harold tunc temporis bailliuo domini meneuensis de landogo. Johanne de castro martini tunc uicecomite pembrochie. hugone de turberuile tunc constabulario de kilgarran. Willelmo filio gurwaret tunc constabulario de kermeis. et multis aliis....."

The four leaders of the Cardigan men were : Lynot qui est tenens abbatis et etiam regis. Walterus Walkeney qui clamat tenere de abbate. Robertus boch senior qui est homo domini comitis. Willelmus sector lapidum qui est homo domini regis.

There is a long declamation at the end : the last words are :

uindictam retribuet in emulos eorum et propicius erit terre populi sui.

After this a leaf is cut out. Then follows one with more documents, in charter hand, relating to St Dogmael's.

- a. Imperfect. A youth has complained to his father, dicens se in choro a duobus monachiis atrociter et enormiter uapulatum. The father complains to the Abbot, who proves the falsity of the whole (4 lines).
 - b. Undertaking of the Abbot B(?) of St Dogmael to provide two people with benefices, viz., Gilbert de Taleton and William Cas. Dated Vigil of St Nicholas, 1253.
 - c. Agreement of the Abbot to allow Roger de Raleuuelk a mark a year until he be provided with a benefice after the two last named. Same date.
 - d. Libellus Walteri de Windsor' prioris de kardigan.
Dicit W. prior de kardigan contra Stephanum et Iohannem de Penbr. monachos de S. Dogm. that they came unasked to Cardigan and took the confession of Morwt, wife of Robert Cayphas, and saw her make her will, etc., and eventually buried her in the Abbey (26 lines).
- (verso)
- e. Carta Joh. Prat. Grant of a burgage to him from the convent.
 - f. Precentor S. Bartholomei, London, subdelegatus conseruator priuilegiorum prioris et patrum hospit. Ierusalem in Anglia : to the Abbot and convent. Cites a privilege of Pope Honorius and bids them restore within 8 days fratrem Ricardum de Kerren apostatam and the goods which he has wrongly carried off with him. London, Sunday after St Vincent's day 1254.

7. STATUTA ANGLIAE.

A. 7

Vellum, $13\frac{3}{8} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, ff. 3 + 26 + 156 + 24, 39 lines to a page. Cent. xiv late (after 1388), very beautifully written and ornamented.

No donor's name appears.

Collation: 3 flyleaves (1 stuck to cover): a¹² b⁸ c⁹ | 1⁸-8⁸ 9⁴ 10⁸-20⁸ | d⁶ e⁸ (8 stuck to cover).

On flyleaf an erasure, apparently of a French inscription: not recoverable.

Contents:

List of Statutes f. i

(Ricardus Rex illustrissimus) lxxiii. Statutum de anno duodecimo.

f. ii b blank.

Capitula of Statutes iii

Inc. Capitula Magne Carte.

Ending f. xxiii a, xxiii b-xxvi b blank. Some late names (xvi-xvii) on xxvi a erased.

Text of the Statutes:

Henricus ultimus. Magna Carta 1

Edwardus primus. Articuli super cartas editi. 10

Edwardus secundus. Commissio ordinacionum 53

ff. 65 b-68 blank¹.

Edwardus tercius. Statutum come hugh le despenser 69

(Ricardus secundus.) Stat. de anno primo 133

Ending with Statutum de anno duodecimo

—a Caleis le primer iour de decembre prochein a venir 156 b

The remaining leaves are ruled but blank.

The text is in Latin and French: the first in French being the Articuli super cartas, f. 10.

The ornamentation of the book is very fine. Each statute has an admirable initial usually of thick pink and blue foliage on gold ground. Besides this there is a highly ornamented page at the beginning of the Statutes of each reign. Thus:

f. 1. Full border. Magnificent initial about $4\frac{1}{2}$ by $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches, mostly of gold lozenge work. Henry III on canopied throne with sceptre and orb with tall gold cross. On L. the shield of England ancient.

f. 10. Full border and very similar initial, of Edward I. Shield of England on L.

f. 53. Full border. Initial with black ground and gold flourishing, representing Edward II: shield of England above.

f. 69. Full border. Initial with ground as last, representing Edward III. Shield of England and France quarterly above.

f. 133. Full border. Initial: pink ground with gold flourishing. Richard II on throne, a kneeling cleric in pink furred mantle over scarlet gives him a book. Shield of England and France quarterly.

There is a gap in lib. I between ff. 106 and 123 (so numbered) which is filled with blank paper. It extends from I, iv, 7 :

octo milia hominum extra totam iudeam profugerint. quorum. to I, xxi, 7 : in colle cesaris templum.

f. 127 is also wanting, containing xxiv, 8 : Nam pro suo quisque odio uel inimicicia, to xxv. 5, ipse rediit cum adolescente in gratiam.

Lib. VII ends f. 245 (218) b : que scripsi habuerint coniecturam. No colophon.

There is a very fine series of initials to the books.

Lib. xv, f. 1 b. Magnificent initial with deep blue ground. Above a man trampling on another and clutching a bird. Below on L. a man with lap full of stones. On R. one about to slay another with sword.

Lib. xvi, f. 16 b : Man bitten by dog, and dragons.

Lib. xvii, f. 39 b. Above, horned man : then one scourging a dog (?). Below, one kills another with axe.

Lib. xviii, f. 61. Climbing man.

Lib. xix, f. 76 b. Grotesques.

Lib. xx, f. 91. Two nude men bitten by green serpents.

Bell. Iud. Lib. I, f. 103 b. On L. *Samuel*¹, a tonsured monk in green habit, writing, with pen and knife. On R. stands Iosephus in rich dress, bearded, holding open book inscribed, Fuit autem isdem temporibus iesus sapiens uir christus hic erat. Blue ground.

Lib. II, f. 136 b. Fine initial. Nude figure in pointed cap.

Lib. III, f. 164. By another artist (?). Beasts blowing horns. No ground.

Lib. IV, 180 b. By the second artist. Decorative, coarser.

Lib. v, f. 191. Man takes book from dragon : purple ground in head of letter.

Lib. VI, f. 200 b. Decorative, with bird.

Lib. VII, f. 219. Decorative. Medallion of head. Dragons.

Vol. II, paper, is a printed Fasciculus temporum.

At end is an engraving impressed from a metal plate : a shield, a chevron between three escallops. Crest a demi-man in cap holding a baton or dagger. Motto : Sola spes mea in te virginis gratia.

Colophon : Fasciculus temporum | a carthusiense compilatum | In formam cronicis figuratum. Vsque in annum | 1478 A me Nicolao gotz | de Seltzstat impressum. —Hain-Copinger *9922, Proctor 1112.

2 fo. 1. ad christum.

Crashawe's name and date Nov. 17, 1609 on f. 1.

2. quod ergo.

On f. 1 at top: Joannes Dee 1573, Nov. 13.

Probably no. 122 in the Catalogue of Dr Dee's MSS. (Diary of Dr Dee, Camd. Soc. 1842, p. 79), vol. II may be no. 118 in the same list.

Collation: 1¹²-8¹² 9¹⁰ 10¹²-19¹² 20⁸ (wants 8) || 1⁸-14⁸ (wants 1-8).

On the fragmentary last leaf of I is on the recto: Thomas Wyesott^r.

On the verso: Iste liber pertinet ad (smudge) hidam. which should mean Hyde Abbey, Winchester. Dr Babington read this as 'ad W(?) hidam' but I do not agree with him.

Vol. II has on f. 1 at top the mark (xv-xvi): I. 37.

Contents:

13. HIERONYMUS SUPER PSALMOS, ETC.

A. 13

Vellum, $16\frac{7}{10} \times 10$, ff. 214 + 4, double columns of 55 lines. Cent. xiv in two very fine hands. Rebound.

Donor, T. C. S. Price marked as 3^l 10^s. 2 fo. nuscula.

On a flyleaf is the mark C.IIIII. resembling that of Titchfield Priory in Hampshire, but not answering to the entry in the old catalogue of that library.

Also on f. 1, upper R. corner: Suthbur' communitatis.

A bit is cut off the top of the flyleaf, where no doubt the name of the former owner occurred. On the flyleaf is Benedictione perpetua benedicat nos pater eternus. Amen.

12 die ffebr. A.D. 1573. J. m.

Collation: 2 flyleaves, 1¹²-5¹² 6⁸ || 7¹²-17¹² 18¹⁴, 2 flyleaves.

Contents:

I. 1. Expositio super prologos S. Hieronymi in Biblia . . . f. 1

Partibus expositis textus noua cura cor angit
Et fragiles humeros onus inportabile frangit, etc.

...

Omnipotens opifex operis dator huius et auctor
Ut stet opus fer opem calamum rege sis michi fautor.

Frater Ambrosius, etc. Ad euidenciam huius epistole quam scribit Jeronimus.

The last section is: Inc. prologus in librum apocalipsis seu potius introitus giliberti pictauiensis in apocalipsim (p. 131).

This heading has led to the conjecture that the whole work is by Gilbert of Poitiers: but in reality the prologue to the Apocalypse (omnes qui pie uolunt uiuere) is all that is his work.

The same text occurs, attributed to 'Gilbertus,' in the Peter-house MS. no. 257.

It ends p. 134: secundum vii status ecclesie generalis. Expl.

Finitur laboris (i.e. labor is) laus Christo grata sit oris .
qui sit scriptoris requies mercesque laboris.

2. Verses on the order of the Biblical books . . . 134

Sunt Genes., Ex., le., nu., de., Josu., Iu., Ruth, Res. paral.
[sic, probably Reg. paral., esdras].

Verses on the number of chapters in each book.

L. genesis. minus exo decem. le. uigin. dat et epta.

p. 136 blank.

II. Hieronymus super Psalmos (xxvi 821) . . . 137

Inc. prefatio expositionis psalmodum S. Ieronimi presbiteri.

Cum proxime origenis psalterium quod enchyridion ille uocauit —aut in persona prophete. Expl. pref.

Inc. interpretatio in psalmo primo. Beatus uir, etc.
 Quidam dicunt hunc psalmum quasi prefationem esse.
 Ends p. 428: hiis mereamur adiungi concinentibus. Ipsi gloria et imperium cum eterno patre et spiritu sancto in cuncta sec.
 sec. Amen.

There are extremely fine and skilful initials to both parts of the book, with figures usually of dogs and hares or deer left in white. These are also found at the main divisions of the Psalter. Marginal notes are enclosed in very pretty frames, e.g. on pp. 4*b*, 5*a*.

14. EPISTOLAE HIERONYMI.

A. 14

Vellum, $11\frac{1}{8} \times 8\frac{3}{10}$, ff. 182+2, double columns of 37 lines. Cent. xv (1449). Written in the Netherlands.

Donor, T. C. S.

2 fo. modum.

At the end, in red:

Explicit liber iste epistolarum b. iheronimi per manus fratris hermanni de bercka a.d. 1449 scriptus in monte sancti iheronimi. orate pro eo.

On the flyleaf: Henrick van Rentzelaer. 1598 and W. Crashawe 1611.

At top an erased inscription of provenance: Liber congregacionis fratrum in monte sancti Iheronimi prope d.uen...(Deventer).

Collation: a² 1⁸-22⁸ 23⁶.

Contents:

Epistolae S. Hieronymi numero quinquaginta.

Table. f. 1*b*
 i*a*, ii*b* blank.

Epistola gloriosi iheronimi et eximii doctoris ad marcellam de onaso.

1-17 ad Marcellam, 18 ad Furiam, 19 ad Saluinam, 20 ad Agerunchiam, 21 ad Paulam, 22 ad Pammachium, 23 ad matrem et filiam in Gallia, 24 ad Thesifontem, 25 ad Aletham, 26 ad Asellam, 27-8 ad Marcellam, 29 ad Theophilum, 30-1 ad Fabiolam, 32 ad Celænciam, 33 ad Sonnam et Pretelam, 34 ad Cyprianum, 35 ad Theodoram, 36 ad Castorinam, 37 ad Principiam, 38 ad Marcellam, 39 ad Demetriadem, 40 ad Susannam lapsam, 41 ad Eustochium, 42 ad virgines Hermonenses, 43 ad Demetriadem, 44 ad Marcellam, 45-6 ad Helvidiam, 47-8 ad Algaziam, 49 ad Oceanum, 50 ad Principiam de obitu Marcelle.

There is a very fine initial in the Dutch style at the beginning of the text, and smaller good ones to the other Epistles.

Text ends f. 181*a*: legentibus placere desiderans.

f. 182 blank.

15. R. GROSSETESTE, ETC.

A. 15

Vellum, $9\frac{1}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{10}$, ff. 143 + 19, several volumes. Cent. xiii-xv.

 $14^8 15^{10} | 16^{10} 17^4 c^1 d^6$.

On the flyleaf:

Liber quondam Magistri Nicholai Kempston A. d. 1477 nunquam vendendus secundum ultimam uoluntatem defuncti sed libere occupandus a sacerdotibus instructis ad predicandum uerbum dei ab uno sacerdote ad alterum sine precio tradendus quamdiu durauerit.

Orate igitur pro anima eius.

Also:

Emptus Lincolniae 1610 per me W. Courtney 40^s.

The inscription of Kempston occurs in four manuscripts at Eton College, in MS. Bodl. Rawl. A 446, and Jesus Coll., Oxford, 116.

On 143*b* are the following names of successive owners:

Libellus fr. Roberti Portlond electi, etc. (xiv-xv).

„ mag. Nicholai Kempston (xv).

„ m. Roberti Elyott (xv-xvi).

„ m. Joh. Thorp (xv-xvi).

„ m. Joh. Talbott xvi.

„ Wilhelmi Crashavi 1610.

Contents:

- II. A single quire of cent. xiii, finely written, 47 lines to a page.

A set of Distinctiones perhaps drawn from Robert of Lincoln's
Templum dei	71
Templum dei sanctum quod estis uos. i ^a . ad. cor. iii. sermo iste quamuis omnes tangat.
On the lower margin of f. 72 in a hand contemporary with the text are $6\frac{1}{2}$ lines of English.
Verba S. Augustini et S. Bernardi anglice.
Wenne hic soe on rode idon ihesus mi leman and be him stonde maria and iohan.
Ends. Bigin at his molde and loke to his to' ne saltu nowit vinde bute anguisse and wo.

- The Distinctiones have no proper ending. They are followed on f. 78 by miscellaneous notes in other hands. On 78 b are some beginnings of deeds (xiii):
- In dei nomine amen cum ego Joh. de Wynth. Rector ecclesie de perperharewe Wynton. dioc., etc.
- Ista prouocacio lecta fuit et pupplicata in ecclesia b. Pauli London. in presencia J. de C. pupp. notar. iii^o Id. Aug. A. d. etc. (no year given) Indict. xiii^a, etc.
- III. In double columns of 49 lines. Cent. xiii-xiv, in a clear hand. f. 79

- Omne caput languidum.
- Ends f. 93 b: eterna in eternum societate gaudere.
- Two chapters without heading.
- Parasti in conspectu meo mensam 93 b
- Posui uestimentum meum cilicium 94
- IV. In double columns of 42 lines, in three good hands of cent. xiii late?
- At top of f. I in a small hand of cent. xiv-xv?
- Libellus fratris Roberti Electi Dromorensis (?) (sc. R. Portlond whose name is on 143 b).
- I find no Robert Portlond, and no Robert bishop of Dromore.
- I. De articulis fidei 95
- Per fidem in uia huius uite ambulamus.
- De Sacramentis.
- Sacramenta noui testamenti præfigurata sunt.
- Other miscellaneous notes and extracts follow: the hand changes on f. 96, but reverts on f. 97, where begins a collection of sermons.
2. Inc. liber tropologie. Dominica prima aduentus domini. sec. matheum 97
- Cum appropinquasset, etc. Erudit nos sapientia dei patris.
- At about f. 103 a new hand seems to come in.
- There are many marginalia damaged by the binder.
- On 120 b at the end of a sermon is an added note:
- Anglice de passione Christi. Hwyt was his nakede brist and his blodi side. Wan was his sayre nebeþ. hys wuden depe and wyde. on fif stedes of hys bodi l'e strêmes renne of blode.
- Another change of hand at f. 130:
- Ego sum pastor bonus. Tria sunt genera pastorum.
- The sermons go as far as the season of Ascension. The last is on Si quis diligit me sermones meos seruat.
- On 134 b the hand changes again.
3. A Bestiary with one or two spaces left for small pictures: no title or rubrics 134 b
- Leo fortissimus bestiarum ad nullius pauebit occursum.
- Ends unfinished f. 143 b:
- Vultur a uolatu tardo nominatus. putatur.

At the beginning are three leaves in double columns of cent. xv of an alphabetical moral dictionary.

A. hec litera triplicatur.

At the end are four more leaves.

At the beginning are also 7 leaves (cent. xv, 41 lines to a page) containing a tract on the priesthood headed:

Lyncolniensis.

Scriptum est de leuitis scilicet(?) de ministris tabernaculi.

Ends: contemplacionem non requirat(?) dei. Explicit.

16. EPISTOLAE HIERONYMI, ETC.

Collation: 1²⁴—3²⁴ 4¹⁶ (wants 13—16).

This, according to Dr C. Horstmann (South English Legendary, E. E. T. S., p. xxiv), is the only manuscript which contains the Temporale of the S.-E. Legendary complete. He divides the contents thus:

1. Old Testament from Adam to Abacuc.
2. a. Advent and Christmas series: Joachim and Anna, etc., to the incident of Jesus and the doctors.
b. Subsequent life of Christ, according to the Gospels and Sunday lessons.
c. Passion, etc., to Pentecost.
Life of St Longinus, and of Pilate.
Descensus ad inferos. Destruction of Jerusalem.
3. Movable Feasts. Septuagesima, Lent, Easter, Holy Thursday. Letania.

Dr Horstmann also gives a very full account of the MS. in Altenglische Legenden, N. F., Heilbronn 1881, pp. li-lvi.

The book contains a number of good miniatures : good in colour but rather hasty in execution. M. Meyer has given a list of those in the first part of the book and has transcribed the directions to the artist which have survived in the margin opposite to a large number of them. I here give a somewhat fuller description.

1. f. 1. Initial. Gold ground (as throughout in the first part). A man and woman kneel on L. On R. the Virgin stands resting a book on an altar.
- In lower margin grotesques. Goat eating at tree. Man with crossbow about to shoot at a pig on his hind legs holding a distaff and spindle.
2. f. 8. Lanuncion des pastors (rubric). Two shepherds, one seated with club, the other with long pipe. Angel flies down with scroll.
3. f. 34 b. Christ on the cross between the two thieves who are on Tau-crosses with their arms bound behind the cross-beam. Inscription cut. ...ou il pent [...la croiz... les ii larrons.
4. f. 41. Noli me tangere. Magdalene kneels on L., red nimbus. Tree in C. Christ fully draped on R. with tall cross. comme il apparut a Magd.

me thowght I herd in verey deede a thundryng voice y^t cride a mane come tyme before the Lord o^r kynge and maik accompt of euerie thinge.

On f. vi b is a xvth cent. list of contents, partly copied from the directions to the artist.

A rectangular piece has been cut out of the first of the 2 flyleaves at the end. Lower down is the letter N (in black letter).

32. PSALTERIUM GLOSATUM.

B. 10

Vellum, 11 × 7½, ff. 157, text 20 lines to a page, gloss varies. Cent. xii, very finely written. 2 fo. montem.

Ex dono Jeremiae Holt 1634. Holt was Rector of Stonham Aspell in Suffolk. A copy of the printed book-plate, which is in all his books, is subjoined¹.

On f. 1 a the names Antony Knyvett (several times), Henry, Edmund, and Thomas Knyvett: and of Amy and Nicholas Coote. Also several texts, as: Secretum meum mihi. Alligatus es uxori. Noli querere solutionem, etc.

Collation: 1⁸-19⁸ 20⁴ (+ 1).

Contents:

Psalterium glosatum.

Inc. liber hymnorum uel soliloquiorum prophete de Christo. . f. 2

A fine initial B with gold and blue ground.

There are interlinear glosses as well.

A xvth cent. hand has added in the margin notes to shew the beginnings of the Nocturnes, and the antiphons, etc.

f. 49 b blank. Large and fine initial to Ps. li. Quid gloriaris . . . f. 50

f. 97 b blank. „ to Ps. ci. Domine exaudi . . . 98

Dixit dominus (Ps. cix) has a more ornamental beginning than the rest.

The Cantica begin f. 143 b.

Gloss on Creed ends : societate et spei communione teneamur.

Then follow Gloria in excelsis and Te Deum, not glossed.

On the lower part of f. 155 was once an inscription in large letters beginning Liber : but it has been cut off.

I have no doubt that the book comes from an East Anglian monastery.

The following account of the book is given by Mr G. C. Macaulay in his great edition of Gower's Works II, p. cxxxix (among MSS. of the First Recension, revised):

J. ST. JOHN'S COLL., CAMB. B 12. Contains the same as A. Parchment, ff. 214, $12 \times 9\frac{1}{2}$ in., in quires of 8 with catchwords: double column of 39 lines, written in a very neat hand of the first quarter of fifteenth century. Latin summaries usually omitted, but most of them inserted up to f. 5 (Prol. 606), and a few here and there in the fifth and seventh books.

The first page has a complete border, but there are no other decorations except red and blue capitals. Old wooden binding.

The seventh leaf of quire 12 (v. 57–213) and the first of quire 14 (v. 1615–1770) are cut out and a passage of 184 lines is omitted in the first book (i. 631–814) without loss of leaf, which shows that the manuscript from which it was copied, and which here must have lost a leaf, had the normal number of 46 lines to the column.

Various names, as Thomas Browne, Nicolas Helifax, J. Baynorde, are written in the book, and also 'John Nicholas oweth this book,' with the date 1576. At the beginning we find 'Tho. C. S.', which stands for 'Thomas Comes Southampton.' The book was in fact bought with others by Thomas Wriothesley, Earl of Southampton, from William Crashaw, Fellow of St. John's College, and presented by him to the College Library in the year 1635.

This MS. gives a text which is nearer to the type of F than that of any other first recension copy. In the later books especially it seems often to stand alone of its class in agreement with F, as v. 649, 1112, 1339, 1578, 3340, 4351, 4643, 5242, 6059, 6461, 6771, vi. 162, 442, 784, 973, 2089, vii. 445, 1027, 1666, 2424, 3235, 4336, 5348, viii. 13, 239, 747, 845, 1076, 1415, 1456 ff., 2195, 2220, 2228, 2442, 2670 ff., and it is noteworthy that this is the only first recension copy which supplies the accidental omission of 'eorum disciplina —materia' in the author's Latin account of the Conf. Amantis at the end. As regards individual correctness it is rather unequal. In some places it has many mistakes, as vi. 1509 ff., while in others it is very correct. The spelling is in most points like that of F, and it is usually good as regards terminations; but the scribe has some peculiarities of his own, which he introduces more or less freely, as 'ho' for 'who,' 'heo' for 'sche' (pretty regularly), 'heor' for 'her,' 'whech' for 'which.' It must also be an individual fancy which leads him regularly to substitute 'som tyme' for 'whilom' wherever it occurs. Punctuation usually agrees with that of F.

Suffrage : Ut cunctam plebem S. MARIAE et S. REMIGII conseruare digneris.

The italicised Saints belong to the province of Rheims.

The decoration of the books consists of two full-page drawings in outline and a series of initials.

f. 1 a. Full-page picture in two halves. Outline, heightened in places with red. It is enclosed in a frame of leaf-ornament of the classical type, veined with red.

Upper half. In C. David, bearded, on a chair decorated with heads of beasts : his feet on a footstool. He wears crown and tunic with broad border and socks or buskins, and plays a harp supported by a kneeling attendant. On R. one man holds an instrument (mouth organ?) to his mouth, a second has a book inscribed Beatus | qui non | habiit | in con[s]ilio | impiorum |, a third blows a curved horn. On L. two men of smaller proportions, and young, hold by a fixed bar and tread on bellows whose nozzles are placed in a wide-mouthed pipe communicating with an organ which has two rows of pipes and seven spatulate keys. Above, in the corner, a man seated with a hammer in L. hand plays seven bells hung on a bar; with the fingers of his R. hand he plays an instrument lying on his knees—a box with a short projecting key at each end.

Lower half. In C. a hairy demon-like figure full face, his head buried in his shoulders: beast-like features, ears, and tail. Round his neck hangs by a cord a barrel-shaped drum: he beats the ends with his hands. On R. 4 people (3 men and a woman) apparently only looking on. On L. two tumblers stand on their heads. Behind them one man plays a fiddle, a second blows a horn. This has been taken to represent either a dance of masquers—the principal figure being arrayed in a beast's skin,—or else the devil and his choir—profane, as opposed to sacred music.

f. 31 a. Full-page picture without frame, in two parts. Careful but unskilful drawing in outline.

Upper half. In C. Christ on tree-like cross (with wavy arms, knots, etc.). He has a cruciform nimbus which the limbs of the cross intersect. His loin-cloth reaches to the knees. He is attached to the cross by four nails. His head is inclined to L. On L. a small man in peaked cap stands on a small double mound and pierces Christ's side. On L. of him the Virgin nimbed holds her robe to her eye.

On R. a small bare-headed man offers the sponge on the reed: he too stands on a small double mound. On R. of him John, beardless nimbed, holds his R. hand to his face and supports his elbow with L. hand. The tree of the cross passes through a slit in the ground and twines into a tree in the lower picture.

Lower half. On L. a fine conventional tree.

In C. Angel seated full face on square tomb, he wears loose robe over tunic with embroidered collar. The tomb (shut) is heightened with purple and green colouring. The angel's wings both point to R. His R. hand is held out across his body towards the three women, nimbed, on L. on a little mound: two of them have caskets.

In the exergue four soldiers coarsely drawn, probably added later. They are prostrate, arranged in a half circle with their feet outwards, and recline on their kite-shaped shields. Two are mailed, the other two have tunics and peaked helmets: all have spurs and swords. The shields are coloured green, yellow, red and purple.

The initials are as follows:

Prologue, f. 2. Decorative, white on purple, green and blue.

Beatus uir. Three decorative initials.

Dominus illuminatio. „

Dixi custodiam. Three initials with dragons.

Quid gloriaris (86 b). Three initials. a., b. Christ seated with book, piercing head of lion with long cross. c. Christ standing pierces head of human figure. Christ beardless throughout: the lion or human figure forms the tail of the Q. Grounds yellow and purple, and green and purple.

Dixit insipiens, Saluum me fac, Exultate, Cantate. Each has three decorative initials.

Exaudi deus. A kneeling suppliant in each: in the first the bust of Christ seen above.

Dixit dominus. In the 2nd initial Christ treading on the head of a man.

Dilexi quoniam. Man and dragon in 2nd and 3rd initials. Beati immaculati. Decorative.

Defecit in salutari (166 b). Two human figures, and a tailed man with hoof and clawed foot. Mirabilia. Men and dragons.

Ad dominum cum tribularer. Decorative.

Nisi dominus. Human figures, good.

Memento domine.

Confitebor (182). Fiddler and two dancers.

Benedictus dominus.

Confitebor (195). Isaiah nimbed, and woman.

The Rev. F. E. Warren considers that "the execution of the drawings... and the forms and colouring of the initial letters, and the prayers for 'regem nostrum' and 'domnum archiepiscopum' on f. 212 a indicate an English scribe and artist. It is an English copy of a French original" and "probably belonged to and was written in one of the English cells of the French Abbey of S. Remigius at Rheims." This might be Lapley in Staffordshire. The lands held by the Abbey in Northants, Stafford and Shropshire are indicated in Dugdale, Monast. vi (vii) 1099.

I do not agree with Mr Warren in thinking the style of the drawings, etc., English, but on the liturgical point I defer to his authority.

In the margin here is a good coloured drawing of the Nativity.

Hatched ground, pale colours. Under a turreted building, on the top of whose central pinnacle is the star, the Virgin lies in front (head to R.). Above her, unsupported, the Child in swaddling clothes. On R. Joseph seated, hand to head: above an angel flies down. The Divine Hand above.

On ff. 4 b-5 b are Paschal tables in red, green, blue, and brown.

At the beginning, in red: Anni ab incarnatione domini m. c. xl., a date which suits well with the aspect of the book.

The tables are carried on to mdiiii.

At end: hec est tabula omnium terminorum ab incarn. domini.

On f. 6 is a very fine initial N, drawn in red, blue, green, and white on a gold field. The letter is composed of two dragons, one seizing the throat of the other, and, on R. a robed figure with a nimbed lion's head. Conventional foliage fills the ground.

I do not feel certain to what source this interesting and beautiful book should be assigned: but the presence of the feasts of S. Oswald (abp) and Egwin in the kalendar suggest a connexion with Worcester. From this point of view, however, it is noteworthy that S. Wulstan's name is an addition.

Initial and splendid border of English work, consisting of featherwork and conventional foliage enclosing medallions. At the lower angles are two medallions containing busts of beardless men, on gold grounds, very finely drawn. In the R. border a shield vert, a bend dexter engrailed arg. between two bulls' (?) heads of the second.

Something has been erased in the middle of the lower border.

The initial, which has been defaced, apparently represented the three persons of the Trinity, all in human form, seated.

The catchwords of the quires are enclosed in very beautifully flourished frames of pen-work.

Part II begins at f. 32 and has a fine decorative initial and border.

Part III, f. 44, has similar border and initial.

Ends f. 98 a: per uiam pacis ad patriam perpetue claritatis. Amen.

ff. 98 b, 99 a blank.

On f. 99 b Ps. xlvii (xlvii) Deus noster refugium in the same hand as the rest.

Contents :

Wycliffite Homilies in English on the Epistles and Gospels for the year.

A quire is probably gone at the beginning.

Three quarters of f. 1 have been cut away.

The first rubric, on f. 2, is : Cum audisset Johannes, etc. þis gospel telliþ a storie of Jon baptyst.

On f. 3 : ffer. 6^a ebdomade 3^e aduentus.

Exurgens maria, etc. þis gospel telleþ þat fro þ^e tyme (Arnold, Select English Works of Wyclif, II 9).

There are various lacunae which are indicated in the collation, and a good many marginal scribbles of cent. xvi. On f. 145 :

Thomas mygers wrat thys wyth.

The Homilies for the Proprium Sanctorum begin f. 155 b.

Commune Sanctorum f. 178^b
 Ending imperfectly in the Homily 'in natali plurimorum confessorum.'
 Sint lumbi uestri precincti. Luc. 12. Þis gospel telleþ alle men hou þei schulden lyue, etc.

This is MS. H in Arnold's Select English Works of Wyclif (I, p. xix). He considers it to be a copy of Royal MS. 18. B. ix. At least 55 sermons are wanting in it.

59. PSALTER (IRISH).

C. 9

Vellum, 10 $\frac{3}{8}$ × 7 $\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 1 + 98, 30, 31, and 32 lines to a page. Cent. x? (Zimmer says cent. x late, Bannister says about A.D. 1000), very finely written in an Irish minuscule.

Donor, T. C. S. Priced xl^s.

From St Martin's Priory, Dover. At the bottom of f. 3 is:

A: V: Psalterium vetus glosatum ydiomate incognito...apprehendite disciplinam
 ...105...I....

A similar inscription and mark on the flyleaf. See Ancient Libraries, p. 523, etc.

At top of f. 1^b: R. Benet (xvi). He seems to have been a mayor of Romney. His name occurs in several other manuscripts in this library.

Collation: 1 flyleaf, 1¹² 2¹² 3¹⁰ 4¹⁴ (14 canc.) 5¹² 6¹⁰ (9 canc.) 7¹² 8¹⁰ 9⁸.

The first leaf after the flyleaf is numbered 4 in the hand of the Dover librarian, and the numbering runs to 101 in the same hand. The lost leaves at the beginning most likely contained the Prologues.

Ending 101 (98) a. Verso blank.

There are copious glosses in the book: I seem to distinguish two hands only. The glosses are interlinear and marginal, and are in Latin and Irish.

At top of f. 2 is an indistinct note.

Argumentum.....incipit (?) prefatio (?).

Then: Psalmus dauid de increpatione abisolon qui erat impius et achithophel.

There is a similar argumentum to each psalm.

The psalms are divided into numbered sections, and the end of a section is apt to be marked with a cross. Thus Ps. 1 is in two sections, the second beginning at Non sic impii, and the last verse having an R̃ prefixed to it¹.

Ps. 2 is thus divided: (1) Quare fremuerunt.

ii Dirumpamus uincula.

iii Ego autem constitutus.

R̃ Dominus dixit ad me.

iv Et nunc reges.

Ps. 3

(1) Domine quid multiplicati.

ii Ego dormivi.

R̃ Domini est salus.

The Irish glosses have been printed by Zimmer, Whitley Stokes, (Goidelica), and W. Stokes and Strachan, Thesaurus Palaeohibernicus I 4-6 (and xiv). One at the beginning of Ps. 51 (f. 36 a) is rendered "Beltane to-day that is Wednesday." Beltane, 1st May, fell on Wednesday 28 times during the ixth and xth centuries. The last four occasions were 972, 978, 989, 995. Some of the forms in the glosses, say the editors of the Thesaurus Palaeohibernicus, seem to point to a high antiquity; side by side with these are others of a later cast.

The decoration of the book consists of: a. Three full-page pictures.
b. Three borders (opposite the pictures). c. Decorative initials.

The three pictures are well-known specimens of Irish art and afford most striking examples at once of skill in decoration and total inability to draw figures.

1. f. 1 b. Border: yellow frame enclosing panels of beautiful interlaced work (white on black) and serpent patterns (red and white on black): also four circles left blank in C. of sides, and four square panels of ornament at the angles.

¹ In the three last Psalms F is prefixed to nearly every verse.

f. 2 a has border, with red frame. Eight disks of plain yellow, four squares of yellow at the angles, and panels of serpentine and interlaced ornament.

2. f. 35 b. Border: yellow frame with panels of interlaced work, and squares and disks in red and vermillion.

The Crucifixion. On the arms of the Cross are two figures with outspread hands who may be meant for the Virgin and John, or two angels¹.

Above Christ's head are the head and ?arms of another figure, probably the Father.

There are red dots in the palms of Christ's hands, and indications of two nails in His ankles: the upright of the Cross is not shown.

On L. the man with the reed and sponge (Stephaton): the reed is represented as passing under the bridge of his nose.

On R. Longinus with the spear. The drapery of Christ is purple, and is made into an interlaced pattern under the arms. The arms and legs are coloured red.

Red dots surround the figures.

f. 36. Border: yellow frame with squares of red and panels of serpentine and interlaced work. Horned beasts occur.

3. f. 68 b. Border: yellow frame, squares and disks of yellow, interlaced work in panels. On L. David holding staff with beast's head and spiked end².

On R. Goliath, upside down, holding hand to face. A round shield halfway down (or up) his body. The draperies of both are mainly purple in bands separated by white lines, and with disks of red and yellow. Red dots about them.

f. 69 a. Border: yellow and red frame of bands which project at the angles and middle of sides: fine panels of interlaced and serpentine ornament.

There is a decorative initial to each psalm. The body of these is usually purple-red, or else black, and they are filled with red, yellow, purple, or vermillion. The internal ground is sometimes ornamented with disks of yellow, sometimes with interlaced work. They are uniformly surrounded with red dots, and in one or two cases they have been erased. Many terminate in heads of beasts. Each verse has a plain initial in black filled with purple—red or yellow. These colours usually alternate, but sometimes both are employed.

Coloured facsimiles of the pictures are to be found in Professor Westwood's publications, as follows:

In Palaeographia Sacra Pictoria, no. 18. The Crucifixion, and the beginning of Benedicite.

In Miniatures and Ornaments of A. S. and Irish MSS. Pl. xxx. The two other pictures, the border of Ps. i and the beginning of Ps. i and Ps. ci (text, p. 84).

The colours in all these are lighter and brighter than those of the MS.

Uncoloured reproductions are to be found in many text-books on art.

The book was shown at the Burlington Fine Arts Club in 1908: no. 3 in the Catalogue.

² Compare a drawing in MS. Cotton Vitellius F. xi, reproduced by Westwood, pl. 51.

60. T. LIVIUS FRULOVISIENSIS, ETC.

C. 10

Vellum, $9\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{8}$, ff. 154 + 3, 29 lines to a page. Cent. xv, in Italian (Roman) hand, probably not written in Italy: with fine ornaments.

Given by Hilkieh Croke. On flyleaf:

Helkieh Crocus in Med: Doctor quondam alumnus Coll: S^{ti} Johannis has Titi Liuii Comoedias (quae nullibi impressae extant) in pignus obseruantiae suae hîc deposuit [Aprilis 12^o 1631].

Very probably belonged to Gunthorp. Compare the next MS.

Collation: 2 flyleaves, 1⁸–4⁸ 5² 6¹⁰ 7⁸–9⁸ (wants 1, 3) 10⁸ 11⁸ (3 canc.) 12⁸ (3 canc.) 13⁸ | 14¹⁰ 15¹⁰ (wants 10) | 16⁸–20⁸ (wants 8): 1 flyleaf.

Little seems to be known of Titus Livius Frulovisius Ferrariensis. His life of Henry V was printed by Hearne in 1716. Tiraboschi (VI 712) professes almost complete ignorance.

There are various marginal notes in red which explain the names of the characters, giving their derivation from Greek.

The illuminated decoration of the book is very beautiful. It is not Italian: perhaps it may be Flemish. It consists of initials to the plays and scenes. The initials are in gold, and from them an irregularly-shaped field of decoration spreads upwards and downwards. The grounds of these are commonly blue with white dots, and they are filled with gold dragons, or other grotesques, and with fine conventional foliage, in colour. The whole effect is extremely good, and unusual. Compare an Athanasius at King's College, no. 27, and a Cicero at C. C. C., 158.

Thomas of Canterbury does not occur.

In the Litany: Martyrs: Alban (2nd), Aelphege, Oswald, Oswin, Eadmund, Nichasius, Lucian, Quintin, Arnulf, Lambert.

Confessors: Bertin (1st), Marcialis, Cuthbert, Germanus, Dunstan, Romanus, Audoen, Taurinus, Audomarus, Folquin, Silvinus, Remigius, Vedastus, Amandus, Samson, Julian, Paul, Antony, Hilarion, Pachomius, Macharius, Arsenius, Winnoc, Columban, Wandregisil, Philibert, Grimbald, Wlmar.

Virgins: Radegund, Baltildis, Genouefa, Adeldrida¹.

Among the Collects are two, 'pro magistro,' and 'pro congregatione S. Bertini.'

At Lauds of the Virgin is a Memoria of St Bertin: another at Vespers.

The connexions of the book with the Abbey of St Bertin (at St Omer), with the family of Walliers and with the Benedictine nunnery of Wherwell in Hampshire are obvious. The entry on Nov. 24 suggests that Margaret de Walliers gave it to her daughter Euphemia, Abbess of Wherwell (1226). The original home (or destination) seems to have been St Bertin's: then we have obits connected with a nunnery at Bailleul (dept Nord, near Hazebroucke): then the book crosses to England.

The following historiated initials occur:

Dominus illuminatio. On L. David, a youth in tunic, with curved staff. Samuel, white-haired in red mantle and white robe, anoints him with a blue vessel. Gold ground.

Dixi custodiam. Initial filled with silver scroll work.

Quid gloriaris. Ahimelech in white mantle covering his head, and red robe, hands a sheathed sword to David, who stands on R. behind the table of shewbread (with white cloth, and bread on it) in red cloak over blue. In the tail of the initial is Doeg, a young figure in scarlet hooded cloak, over green; he crouches watching them.

Dixit insipiens. Silver initial surrounded by bright red and filled with gold scroll work.

Saluum. Fine decorative initial with blue amphisbaena forming the letter.

Exultate. Fine initial with bright red ground.

Cantate. Filled with gold ornament on dark ground, surrounded by bright red.

Domine exaudi. Rather like the Christ Church initials of the time, with lion.

¹ Mr S. C. Cockerell points out that this Litany is of St Alban's, adapted to St Omer's. He says of the book, "this nobly-planned Psalter is of very English appearance, but the evidence of its having been written for, and probably at, St Omer's is very strong, although the Litany is based on a St Albans Litany, and the book was very early in England." I quote from Mr Cockerell's Catalogue of the Burlington Fine Arts Club Exhibition of Illuminated MSS., where the book was shown in 1908 (no. 32).

Dixit dominus. Half length of Christ blessing, with book curiously marbled¹ on the side: red mantle over yellow with red shading. The initial surrounded by a ground of dull purple.

Ad dominum (cxix). Good decorative initial.

Canticum Isaie. " "

Te uideo (f. 218 b). On L. a bending figure of a man in black cap, pink mantle over white (with green shading). On R. Christ, with green cross-nimbus on pink over yellowish robe, holds blank scroll and blesses.

Hours of the Virgin, f. 236. Half length of the Virgin in red mantle covering her head. She holds a marbled book. Surrounded by purplish ground.

All the above initials are edged with green.

Each psalm and prayer has a gold initial filled or surrounded with coloured flourishing on uncoloured ground. A few have coloured grounds and contain lions or birds.

The writing of the book is most exquisite throughout. It resembles more than anything else the fine minuscule used at St Augustine's, Canterbury, in the eleventh century. But there is at present nothing to show definitely where it was written.

Each of the sections begins with a gold initial, and in one or two places where this has been missed, it seems, a gold cross is added in the margin.

The main ornaments of the volume have never been added. The blank leaves preceding each Gospel show that the intention was to have prefixed to each a frontispiece, probably a portrait of the Evangelist, and certainly the opening words of the Gospel in elaborately ornamented fashion.

There is one indication that the book has actually been used in a monastery. At John xiii is a series of notes in the margin, in large red letters of cent. xiv-xv, viz.:

At xiii, 1. Hic inc. leccio capituli in cena domini.

After 15. Hic conuentus sedeat.

At 27 b. Hic surgant Infirmarius Refect(orarius) Vestiarius Subcellerarius.

At 34. Hic surgat cimbalum percussurus.

At 35. Hic uadat conuentus in refectarium.

The table of Gospels for the year affords me no light. It seems, as often, to be simply a Roman table, copied without alteration, and corresponds accurately with that in the Gospels at Trinity College (B. 10. 4): see my Catalogue I, pp. 292, 3.

A principal feature of interest in this Bible lies in the marginal notes, which are by a hand nearly allied to that of the original scribe. They consist for the most part of various readings. The authorities principally quoted in the Old Testament are : he. = hebrei, an. = antiqui (sc. codices), mo. = moderni, Je. = Jeronimus, Ra. = Radulfus, glosa (the glossa ordinaria), and also two correctoria quoted as utraque correctio or prima and secunda correctio or parisiensis and (very rarely) se. (= senonensis?). The Septuagint and Josephus, Rabanus, and the historia scholastica are also cited.

In the O. T. these notes are most copious (and least interesting) on the early chapters of 1 Chron. The Psalter is not touched.

In the N. T. there is nothing till Matt. xviii. After that Rabanus, Jerome, antiqui, Gg. (= Gregory). Also G. = grecum. This last may be quoted from a correctorium. Samples are:

On Lc. xxiv. G. dicit cleophas media producta.

On Jo. xiv. Gre. sic punctat et non cogno(uistis) me. philippe qui uidet me, etc.

At Jo. xx is a light sketch in ink of the sepulchre with the lid across it.

At Jo. xxi (sed quasi cubitis ducentis). G. quasi a cubitis a multitudine.

At Rom. xvi (asincritum et flegontum). G. assintritum phycegonam sed scen. (? senonensis) et paris. flegontam.

At 2 Thess. ii (discessio). G. apostasia al. refugia.

At Act. xviii (cuiusdam nomine titi iusti) sic multi et prima correctio sed secunda correctio et g. sine tyti.

At Rev. xv (uestiti lapide mundo). G. habet vesti(ti) linum mundum et candidum. paris. uestimenti lino mundo et candido. contra omnes libri habent lapidem et glosa exponit .i. firmitate. et sen^o. lapide.

At Rev. xxii (et dominus deus spirituum prophetarum). Correctio paris. habet. sed fere ubique sine, et prior correctio.

The subject of the Correctoria of the Vulgate has been treated by Berger, Denifle and Vercellone: but I do not think the last word has been said. My own experience of Latin Bibles leads me to say that there are few in which the Correctoria are so copiously and avowedly used as in this.

The decoration of the book is interesting, though there are no pictures. The fore-edges are all painted with shields of arms. These have lost what colour they had and are difficult to decipher, but what remains is:

At top. 1. Checky arg.? and sable?

2. arg.? lion rampant sa.?

Front. 1. Three leopards passant.

2. The same with a label of five points.

3. Two chevrons, perhaps each in two colours: light on dark field.

Bottom. 1. A bend dexter?

2. A fess (light), perhaps a lion rampant behind it.

At the beginning of the book is a very handsome initial (conventional foliage on gold ground) and nearly complete border. Suspended to this is, at bottom, in a small shield or, a saltire gules.

On f. 3 b, in another border, is a little flag attached to a trumpet, arg. a saltire or.

On f. 4 a similar flag is or a chevronel argent (?) between two chevrons azure.

At Deuteronomy, f. 58, is a small shield or, three chevrons azure and argent.

Each book has one of these fine initials (that to Deuteronomy is missing) and grotesque figures are fairly common in the borders attached to them.

There is also a multitude of initials to the chapters, which are commonly in red with green flourishing or blue with red flourishing: very well executed.

In the Kalendar:

Jan. 27. Juliani Ep. in blue.

Feb. 28. Romani abb.

Apr. 11. Guthlaci. 19. Aelphegi arch. 30. Erkenwaldi Ep. C. in red.

May 9. Transl. S. Andree et S. Nicholai in blue.

June 17. Botulfi abb. in red.

July 8. Grimbaldi sacerdotis. 13. Mildrithe V. 29. Olaui.

Oct. 7. Osithe V. 11. Adhelburge V. in red.

Nov. 6. Leonardi C in red. 19. Eadmundi R. in blue.

In the Litany: Martyrs, Thomas, Edmund. Confessors, Nicholae II, Vedaste, Amande. Virgins, Brigida, Eufrosia, Ethelburga, Radegundis, Concordia.

These entries on the whole point strongly to London as the place where the book was produced.

On f. i a, stuck to the cover, is some writing of cent. xv. The name Tomas Maksey occurs.

On f. ii a, erased, Psalterium Abbatis Roberti de Lindesey glosatum.

Mr S. C. Cockerell suggests that this should be read Roberti de Lindesey, and points out that Robert de Lindsey, abbot of Peterborough (1214-1222), owned a Psalterium glossatum (this book) and a Psalterium non glossatum (now at the Society of Antiquaries). See Gunton's Peterborough, p. 29. This excellent suggestion adds greatly to the interest of the book¹.

On iv b: Compendium veteris testamenti. tractatus qui inc. cum omnes prophetas. matutine de S. maria. psalterium glosatum.

On flyleaf at end in red: a. d. m^{lo} ccccc^o xxx^oiii ffrater Rogerus Birde monachus.

The Kalendar is illustrated by a medallion of the sign for each month. Frames alternately green and yellow, grounds alternately pink and blue.

Jan. Aquarius in blue cloak holds two vessels upside down.

Feb. Pisces. Mar. Aries (dark). Ap. Taurus. May. Gemini, two bodies and two legs, holding a shield before them, and darts. June. Cancer (grotesque).

July. Leo. Aug. Virgo with flowers in each hand. Sept. Libra held by a man.

Oct. Scorpius, four legs, ridged back and long tail. Nov. Centaur shooting to L.

Dec. Capricorn, goat ending in cornu copiae.

The Hours of the Virgin have a large initial with gold ground of the Virgin crowned, seated holding the Child on her knee, a flower in her R. hand.

The full-page paintings are on one side of the leaf only. There are two scenes on each page. Frames vermilion with blue transoms, or vice versa. Grounds gold.

1. f. 27 b. Angel on L. addresses two shepherds seated on a hill, goat and sheep below them.

2. The three kings, with flat crowns, before Herod, who is throned on R. with sword.

3. f. 28 b. The kings offer their gifts to the Virgin and Child (fully draped) seated on R. The gifts are two bottles and a ring-like object.

4. Four soldiers in mail shirts and hose slay children. A mother sits on the ground on L. Herod throned with sword on R.

5. f. 29 b. Joseph with basket of doves. The Virgin holds the Child over altar. Symeon nimbed on R.

6. John baptizes Christ, who stands in a heap of green water with fishes in it. Angel on R. holds the seamless robe.

7. f. 30 b. Christ rides into a gate in a wall, on a white ass. A man spreads a garment. Three apostles follow on L. On the battlements are four people with branches.

8. In C. Judas kisses Christ. Six men on L. with lantern and weapons: one seizes Him. Peter on R. with book.

¹ Both of Robert de Lindsey's Psalters were shown at the Burlington Fine Art Club Exhibition of Illuminated MSS. in 1908. They were respectively nos. 34 and 37 in the Catalogue.

f. 31 b is occupied by the frontispiece to the Psalter, which consists of a magnificent B of interlaced work on gold ground framed in pink, gold and other colours, and edged with green. In the initial is a small David with harp. At the angles are medallions. At top two men playing fiddles of varying forms. At bottom two men seated speaking.

Dominus illuminatio. Large initial. David or Solomon in blue robe with broad pallium or laticlave of yellow stands holding staff between two men in mantles and long gowns, who place a crown on his head.

Quid gloriaris. Four men with swords massacre three tonsured men.

Dixit insipiens. David seated holds up a harp: a man seated on the same seat holds up a fiddle. In air between them is an object on a base, possibly meant for an altar.

Salvum me fac. Above, two men push Jonah out of a boat. Below, he emerges from the fish's mouth. Tree on L.

Exultate. Above, Christ in vesica between angels with fiddle and trumpet. Below on L. angel on ladder. On R. angel wrestling with Jacob.

Cantate. Angel on L. with scroll addresses two shepherds.

Domine exaudi. A crowned man with orb and scroll (attendant or woman behind him) kneels to Christ standing on R.

Dixit dominus. Christ throned on R. places crown on the head of a beardless king, seated by Him, with sceptre and orb.

These paintings are not characteristically English in style, with the exception of the large B on 31 b, which is by another artist. I have an impression that they hail from Flanders.

Each psalm and prayer has a handsome gold initial with filling in of green, brown, pink, etc.

The line fillings are flourishes in blue or red.

82. SERMONES DE B. VIRGINE.

It contains a list of vestments and church ornaments, a copy of which is appended.

Contents:

Below this is written (xiv) Boicius magnus (by mistake for Statius).

Fraternas acies, etc.

Some account of the text of this MS. is given by Mr H. W.

Garrod in the Classical Review (vol. XVIII, pp. 38 sqq.: Feb. 1904). He assigns it to cent. x. I should put it in cent. xi.

The following leaves are badly stained with galls, possibly applied by or for Beaupré Bell, who collated it in 1730¹ for Jortin:

ff. 17 b, 18 a: 18 a is the worst of the two, but is partly legible.

19 b, 20 a: 19 b the worst.

20 b, 21 a: 20 b the worst.

23 b, 24 a: both legible.

24 b, 25 a, 25 b, 26 a: all fairly legible.

32 b, 33 a: legible.

40 b, 41 a: legible.

49 b, 50 a: fairly legible.

50 b: fairly legible.

At the bottom of 3 a is the full Dover press-mark:

:2j: III: Stacius magnus.... ecce autem antique....111...3.

A good initial to Lib. x in black and white on f. 38 a, almost the only one that has been finished.

¹ Not 1830, as inadvertently printed in Mr Garrod's article.

Lib. XII ends near the bottom of col. 1 of f. 50 b :

papinii surculi.....TEBAI/DOS Liber....explicit.

Some 12 lines follow in a smaller hand, which I cannot decipher.

Col. 2 contains (as Mr Garrod notes) Ausonius, Idyll. xx.

Clio gesta canens, etc.,

and also (not noted by Mr Garrod) the Lament of Oedipus (see Edelestand du Ménil, Poésies du moyen âge, and my

In festo S. Andree ap. Require omnia in suo loco, etc.

S. Withburga, f. 246 b. Transl. S. Edmundi, f. 248.

Transl. S. Augustini, f. 255. On margin of 255 b, in a late hand, Offices in festo S. Iohannis de bridlyngton. in. f. S. Edwardi Conf.

Ends f. 257 a. On 257 b a late Office In festiuitate Reliquiarum.

On 258 a, scribbled, "To Westacre." On verso, xv late:

ffratre et sorore capituli nostri tam uiuorum quam mortuorum.

In primis Ihā (Iohanna?) Coke. ricardus blacster. thomas fferbi.

dominus galfridus blake. thomas gente. ricardus smythe. Eliz.

anger. alanus tempull.

The book seems to have belonged to Westacre, an Augustinian priory in Norfolk. The prominence given to SS. Augustine and Edmund (and the occurrence of Withburga) point to an East Anglian house of the Augustinian order, and the fortunate accident of the name of Westacre being found on the flyleaf seems to me to fix the matter pretty definitely.

 This is by William of Ramsey according to Bale (who seems

 Bishop Stubbs, Gesta Regum, Introd. 1, suggests that William of Malmesbury is the author. In the Harleian manuscript (3969) the present work is accompanied by an abridgment of several grammatical tracts made by William of Malmesbury, and doubtless he was a diligent and learned compiler and epitomizer as well as historian.
 The Harleian copy, which wants the first leaves, was the only one known to Bishop Stubbs. It once belonged to Emmanuel College. This fact I ascertained after my Catalogue of the Emmanuel MSS. was published.

Cantica	153 ^b
Litany	167
Office of the Dead	168 ^b

Each page has a border on 3 sides, L. top and bottom. It consists of a band of blue or pink (on alternate pages) on the L. with white patterns on which the gold initials are set; these are filled with blue or pink. At top and bottom are bars of blue, gold and pink, with white feather patterns: these are turned respectively upward and downward at the ends. There are also historiated initials with gold grounds, viz.:

Dominus illuminatio. David crowned stands pointing to his eye: the Divine Hand above an altar on R.

Dixi custodiam. Similar.

Cantate. Two clerks in albs facing R., the one on R. holds book: lectern on R.

Domine exaudi. David faces altar on R. Divine Hand above it.

Dixit dominus. John Baptist kneeling within a battlemented wall at base of a tower. An executioner on R. beheads him.

A leaf has been cut out of the Litany containing most of the invocations of Saints. Those which remain are scratched through with a pen. They are legible and do not convey clear information as to the provenance. The kalendar is also gone.

I have no doubt that the book is from Flanders. It closely resembles one at Trinity College (R. 10. 5) and I have seen others of the same kind.

The hand changes several times, and there are many marginal notes.

On 125 b : Note from Bernard on Ecce ancilla domini, etc. On the next leaf (a slip) : Pertinet dompno Roberto ypswyck (over erasure) monacho and four verses : Vir caueas quid tu iubeas dum magnus habebis, etc.

At the end is a folded leaf of a large music book of cent. xiii. On the outside are two songs in French and Latin written in alternate lines, with music on a five (and six) line stave.

The French song begins : En aueril al tens ^{tecis (?)}...delits (?) ke oysels funt chanter si gay quant rechet li tens iolifs en contre la seysun de may. et dames et damaysels sunt plus | quentes e plus beles deuis bloy culure. et checun en sa manere de amer fet semblant et chere cum cil ki est en amure lors mi so | mrint (?) bon amer et bele dame sanz mentir ke ieo soye nuit et iur de q^{er} pensifs, etc.

The Latin: O Christi clementie mire mira fecunditas parens innocencie tu perpetrata pondera et errores corrigendo crucis hostes sustinendo affligis chisticolas cur romana relegatur sedes sacra dum pulsatur egypti gentilitas, etc.

Compare the fragments of a song-book in MS. C. C. C. 8.

The other side is in two columns and has hymns to St Bartholomew.

O sancte Bartholomee plebs fidelis hodie | gratulatur et letatur per te dux eterne, etc.

O sancte Bartholomee plebs deuota dignas tue laudes dat memorie, etc.

One flyleaf at the beginning is a fragment of an account roll (no doubt of Bury Abbey) of cent. xiii late, chiefly concerning payments to the Carectarius, payments for grinding, and for purchase of corn.

139. PROCESSIONAL (SYON).

F. 2

Vellum, $7\frac{7}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$, ff. 104 + 12, 8 lines of text and music (four-line stave) to a page. Cent. xv, well written.

145. ALPHABETUM MORALE.

F. 8

Vellum, $7\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{3}{8}$, ff. 126, 31 lines to a page. Cent. [?]xiii late, well written. Old wrapper of red skin.

Donor, T. C. S.

The skin wrapper was over pads composed of fragments of manuscript for the most part badly written, but all of cent. xiii. There are about 18 leaves and fragments at each end.

Collation: 1¹² 2¹⁰ 3¹² 4¹⁰ 5¹⁰ 6⁸ 7¹⁰ 8⁸-10⁸ 11¹⁰ 12¹² 13¹⁰ (wants 9, 10).

The book evidently comes from Northampton. This is shown by the contents of the pads, which consist largely of accounts of cent. xiii late; one is headed "Billing minor" the name of a village near Northampton, and there are mentions of Northampton in another fragment.

Besides these the pads contain bits of a well-written copy of the Proverbs of Hendyng (xiii) and a page of French relating to the Virgin as well as Sermons, etc.

This last saint is Ebrulphus, or Evroul, abbot of Ouche. The prominence given to St Ethelbert, coupled with the entry of Ebrulf, suggests a cell to the Abbey of Ouche, situated in the sphere of Ethelbert's influence (i.e. Herefordshire), as the home of this Kalendar : but I can find no such place. There were very few cells of Ouche in England : the principal one was Ware in Herts.

A devout Psalter. Verba mea auribus	213
Preces maiores. Ego dixi domine miserere	221

The house to which this belonged was evidently an Augustinian nunnery.
Mr Bradshaw gives the following account of the MS.:

This MS. is a complete Psalterium arranged for church use; followed by the Cursus B. Virginis, the Litany, and Vigiliae mortuorum, with the miscellaneous devotions usually found in the volumes of Horae. Among these last are some prayers for which indulgences are granted by Pope Pius II. (†1464) and Louis de Bourbon, Bp. of Liège (†1482). A Liège Breviary (which we do not possess) would show at once whether the Invitatories, and the Psalms with their Anthems, are those of the Ordinarius ecclesiae Leodiensis. Prefixed is a Kalendar, containing besides a very few festivals (among which are Sts George, Servatius, Lambert, Remigius, Dionysius, Hubert, Leonard, Martin, Katherine, Nicholas, and Lucy), 206 entries of names evidently more or less closely connected with some sisterhood in the diocese of Liège, and 15 of them close relations of the owner, who must have been a lady of the family of van Heestert. Willem and Odielie van Heestert, her father and mother, Ghisebrecht and Gheertruyt, her grandfather and grandmother, besides uncles, aunts, brothers, sisters, brothers-in-law, and sisters-in-law, all find places here; among them her aunt 'Onse werde mater Suster Lysbeth van Heestert, ons lieue moye', ought to afford a clue by which some Liège antiquary might identify the house. The only names familiar to me are the Bishop 'Here Lodewijck van Borboen, onse groet here van Ludick' (Aug. 29), and 'Meester Jan Laet van Borchloen' (Oct. 15), whose Prognostications for 1476, 1477, 1478, and 1481, are known, though perhaps less so than those of his successor, Jaspas Laet van Borchleon, from 1485 onwards. I should describe the MS. as of the latter part of the XVth century, and the binding I should place without much hesitation in the last decade of the same century.

In a later generation the book belonged to one 'Suster Anna Puettaerst,' who, from one or two entries which she has made in the Kalendar, seems to have been related to the original owner. The next trace of ownership is the title written on the fly-leaf, 'A Primer and Psalter with Dutch Rubrickes,' in the familiar handwriting of William Crashawe, of St John's College, whose books were bought by Henry Wriothesley, Earl of Southampton, who died in 1624.

 A note by Dr Liebermann is prefixed from which I extract the following:
 "It is the second edition ending a(nno) 12 Stephen, 'iocunditate spiraculi.' There is no table of contents for the whole history; but Capitula primi libri are given after the prologue. After a. 15 Cnut follow the laws of Cnut in a version which is nearly related to the Colbertina, and then Pseudo-Cnut. The consecration of Alexander of Lincoln a. 1123 is mentioned with the words Alex. qui nepos est (he died 1147) Rogeri Salesburiensis (he was deposed 1138). In the history of Jerusalem (sub a. 1096) mention is made after King Baldwin II of 'Gaufridus (sic) Andegav. et post Gaufrid filius eius' which cannot have been written before 1144. After the end of book vii there follows Stephen's reign which in other copies is found in the tenth book. The miracula Anglorum (as in all MSS.) occupy the 9th book, while the three letters which here bear the title of the 10th book are elsewhere called the 8th. The first letter though professing to have been addressed to Henry I in 1135 tells that Conrad III now in his second year has not yet been crowned emperor—a passage the date of which cannot be before 1138. The succession of bishops in the third letter is of the same date of edition as in the print (Migne). The contents of the 11th book agree with T. Wright's print (Satirical Poets of cent. xii). The last book contains hymns to God and Christ and a dialogue between amicus and amica combining the version of the Cantica Canticorum with reminiscences of Horace. It is unprinted and I have taken a copy of it.

This MS. is doubtless derived from the same draft as Trin. Coll. R. 5. 42, but they are independent of each other."

Othea of prudens named Goddes
That settith good hertis in wurthynes

Each section of the text (in verse) is followed by Glose and Allegorie, in prose, and each Allegorie ends with a rubricated text from the Bible in Latin.

The poem (Texte) ends f. 60 b :

ffor a womman lerned Augustus
To be worshipid and taught him þus.

The Allegorie ends 61 a :

but how myche he can not. To þis purpos þe wise man seith.
Auris bona audiet cum omni concupiscencia sapienciam ecclesiastici viº caº.

¹ The version is by Stephen Scrope, and was edited in 1904 by Dr G. F. Warner for the Roxburghe Club. The preface and dedication here differ, but the text is the same.

The illustration of the book has been begun in very good style by an English artist, but soon ceases, and no spaces are left for pictures. Those that are completed are as follow :

f. 1. Dedication. The translator (L.), a beardless man in blue tunic and red hose and cloak, kneels and presents his book to the Duke of Buckingham, beardless, in red gown and blue hat, seated on a chair covered with a yellow-red cloth : attendants on R. and on L. two others ; the scene is an enclosure with low pink parapet and pavement of green and black.

This page is bordered partially.

f. 2*a*. Figures in grisaille. Othea, half-length, in pink cloud on R. hands the sealed Epistle to Hector, a boy in long coat. Three tall bearded men in hats on L. On R. a tree with a shield on it sable, two lions rampant or face to face.

f. 5*a*. Othea in cloud on R. as before touches the works of an elaborate clock in a pink framework on pink base, which stands in C. It has bell and hammer at top and 3 weights : the emblems of the Evangelists in the spandrels of the face. The works drawn with care. On L. kneel a beardless man, two women, another beardless man. Behind them a rock with trees. Figures in grisaille.

f. 6*a*. On L. Hercules in plate and mail, with lion-skin over it, holds chain attached to neck of Cerberus (single-headed) breathing fire, and smites him with club. On R. two knights in plate and mail (Theseus and Pirithous) fight two devils in the mouth of a cave among flames. Somewhat defaced : the warriors in grisaille. See Pl. 108 in Catalogue of Burlington Fine Arts Club Exhibition, 1908. The MS. is no. 157 in the Catalogue.

f. 8. On L. a bearded king (Minos) with sword on canopied throne : a gowned councillor on either side. Before him two men in linen drawers only, their hands bound with cords. Two men behind them, one with club. Figures in grisaille.

f. 9. On L. Percivalle (Perseus) in plate armour on Pegasus, who has red wings : Perseus has plain gold shield and a short scythe raised in his hand. Below him is the head of a great toothed fish emerging from the water. On R. a rock in the sea, on which kneels Andromeda crowned. Figures in grisaille. See Pl. xv in Collegium D. Joh. Evang. 1911.

These are extremely fine pictures and unusual both in subject and treatment.

On a flyleaf at end is a scribe's note: vi payentis (i.e. paintings) ii. c. champis. vi, iii. c. paragraffis v.

209. BEDA, ETC., SUPER APOCALYPSIM.

At top of f. 1 of text is (xvi) :

It does not seem to be entered in the fragmentary Catalogues of Ramsey Abbey library, printed in the Chronicon of Ramsey in the Rolls Series.

Collation: 1⁴ i⁸—xxii⁸ xxiii¹⁰ xxiv⁸ xxv⁸ xxvi⁷ (three), 1 flyleaf loose.

Contents :

On f. i b old lists of contents.

On ff. ii, iii are four very fine full-page drawings in outline : rubricated inscriptions are added to some. They are in plain frames, and are drawn with great firmness and spirit.

ii a. A bearded nimbed Apostle (John?) seated on a spotted cushion, his feet crossed : he holds up knife and pen : his cloak fastened on the L. shoulder with a round brooch. On R. a desk on a shaft with two projecting curved scroll-handles. On the sloping top a book with the long bag-like cover hanging down.

ii b. Iohannes apostolus et ev. John, vested as bishop, seated full-face on a chair with dragons' heads and claws, his feet on an elaborate footstool. He wears mitre, chasuble, tunicle?, stole and alb, is beardless, holds crozier, and blesses. Below, partly outside the picture, is a prostrate monk : scriptor libri ueniam precatur.

iii a. Vault with tiled roof : three towers above. Beneath it on a transom a rich candlestick with seven branches. Below the transom four more towers. Inscription : septem ecclesie. septem candelabra, and the names of the seven churches.

iii b. Christ with cross-nimbus on cushioned seat, full-face, holds with both hands a sword across His mouth and apparently bites it.

Sarum Breviary.

Begins imperfectly in the Proper of Time in the Office for Ash Wednesday.

At Easter is a gap of two leaves: from Eve of Pentecost to Trinity Sunday of six leaves. In the Historia of Tobit 1 leaf gone: in office for 15–18 Sun. after Trinity 1 leaf.

Termini paschales	f. 97
Benedictiones	97 b
98 a blank : 99 b one page of the Advent office.
100, 101 are misplaced leaves out of quire 13.
102 the end of the Litanies, presumably the only relic of the Psalter.
Proper of Saints	103
In Office of SS. Peter and Paul and Transl. of S. Thomas 1 leaf gone.
At the Assumption 1 leaf.
S. Bartholomew to Nativity of the Virgin 6 leaves.
In S. Quintin 1 leaf. In All Souls 1 : in S. Martin 2 : Cecilia to Katherine 2 leaves.
Common of Saints : 2nd leaf gone : and three or four others	236 b
Ends f. 262.
Benedictiones dominicales	263

Almost every page is partially bordered with line and leaf-work, having insertions of gold and colour and of flowers, fruit and grotesques : the ground is plain save on the pictured pages, where fluid gold is employed.

The motto Bien en auieugne, sometimes with C M following, occurs very often. The initials and motto occur in MS. Fitzwilliam 187, in conjunction with the motto of Charles the Bold, and the device of the Golden Fleece.

The remaining pictures (but a large majority have been removed) are :

1. Ascension. f. 51 b. The Virgin and Apostles kneel round the mount in a landscape. The robe of Christ seen in a gold break in the clouds.

Border white foliage on fluid gold : with motto and forget-me-nots.

2. Corpus Christi. 57 b. Christ seated at the near end of a table seen in perspective turns to L. and gives the sop to Judas, who kneels to him, in red. The other Apostles seated at table. On L. a servant at a buttery-hatch. Fireplace on R., buffet at further end.

Plain ground to the border.

3. Proper of Saints. f. 103. Andrew bound to saltire cross in landscape. Christ seen in the sky. On R. the ruler Egeas and two soldiers.

Fine border with fluid gold ground.

4. Purification. f. 122. Interior of temple with apse and yellow curtains : altar on R. Symeon kneeling on step before altar. The Virgin in white over blue, with the Child, in C. Attendant (woman) and Joseph with candle and dove on L.

Fine border, white foliage, and flowers and birds on gold.

5. Annunciation. f. 134. Virgin in white over blue kneels on L., a small table and book in front. Dove above her head. Gabriel in gold and green cope over white, with sceptre on R.

A massive band of burnished gold, with pattern, on two sides of page : the border has plain ground.

6. Nativity of John Baptist. f. 151 b. In a room. Zacharias in blue hood with long tail, and pink mantle, sits with paper on knee and looks up at an angel in air. On R. of a fireplace at the further end a bed. Elizabeth and the child on it : two women attend. Border with gold ground.

In the Sanctoral are David, Chad, Translation of John of Beverley, and Wenefred.

Slips showing the lacunae have been inserted by Mr Weale (?).

Contents :

- I. De mundi creacione disposicione et ornacione Inc. liber. . . f. 4 (1)
 Cum uniuscuiusque rei principium eius pars sit.
 A note by Dr Liebermann gives the following account. I slightly condense it. See also Neues Archiv, IV 33.
 "ff. 1-93, in several hands of the beginning or middle of cent. xiv.
 Excerpts from Gervasius Tilburiensis' Otia Imperialia (ed. Leibnitz, Scriptt. Rer. Brunsvic. 1): or rather the greater part of G.'s text transcribed verbatim but in a very different order.
 The prologue of G. occurs here at the end. There is no table of contents, but the rubrics of the chapters are generally given.
 The first Distinctio of Gervase ends at f. 36 [really 12 b: aeris desiccacionem iam ceptam].
 The second is thus headed :
 Inc. liber qui dicitur mappa mundi 37 (13)
 Nominaciones et diuisiones terrarum et orbis.
 This title properly applies only to a part of Dist. II.
 f. 35 = Leibnitz I 906 : 36 = 907. ff. 44, 58, 61, 71 b, 72, 73, 77, 78, 80, 89, 90, are taken (at least materially) from Gervase.
 f. 80 verbatim = Gervase 972-3 (c. 35).
 f. 89 b, col. 2 = 931.
 On f. 74 b, where in the original the author speaks of himself, our MS. inserts after me, 'Galfridum' (sic): otherwise the text = Leibnitz 998.
 On f. 73 he also cites Galfridus de Tilliberia, which citation is so clumsily inserted as to spoil the sense.
 On f. 77 Willelmus Beroquer, the authority for an anecdote, is described as 'postea unus de iusticiariis domini Henrici regis Anglie filii regis Iohannis.'
 f. 90 b = Leibn. 942.
 92, col. 1 = „ 944.
 91 = „ 943. But an original continuation of the history of the empire is added, ending with 1266, and alluding to Simon de Montfort's rebellion as 'hoc anno,' and adding, of England, 'que uix uel raro propter scisma erigetur in statum pristinum' (92 a). This seems to show that our tract was composed before the end of Henry III's reign.
 The readings of this MS. agree rather more with those of the Canonici Geruasius (Bodl. Canon. Misc. 53) than with those of Vespasian E. IV."
 Ends f. 93 (69) b: qui auctor est humilitatis et pietatis per infinita seculorum secula. Expl. mappa mundi.
- II. Chronica Martini Poloni.
 Nomina romanorum pontificum 94 (70)

From Peter to Innocent IV, 1284, in the first hand : continued to 1352 and again to Urban VI, 1378 (in three hands). At 855, after Leo V, is Johannes ; a marginal note (xiv) says :
papissa non ponitur in cathologo pontificum.

Inc. cronica fratris Martini de pontificibus f. 95 (71)

Quoniam scire tempora

Dr Liebermann's notes are as follows :

"f. 95. The prologue mentions John XXI. It therefore is Martin's second edition (called in Mon. Germ. Hist. SS. XXII, Class C), which contains the ancient Roman history and the story of Pope Joan. At the end (f. 120 b, col. 2) there is the same addition as in the MS. called (l. c.) No. 8 (MG. p. 443⁺). The second hand continues, but only for the pontificate of Nicholas III : and this piece is repeated verbatim on ff. 121 b, col. 1—122 a, col. 1 by a second hand, which comes down to Clement V. This part, although certainly connected with the source of the Continuatio Romana (printed l. c.) and sometimes agreeing with it verbatim, still seems to be a different work, most likely unprinted.

A hand of the end of cent. xiv has added some short notices on f. 123 b and brings the history down to Urban V."

f. 124 (100) is blank.

After it, a slip in the same hand as the List of Popes :

Nomina Imperatorum from Octovianus to Frethericus II (1212).

Continued in two hands to Ludouicus IV (1338) : with some marginal notes.

Inc. cronica fratris Martini de Imperatoribus 125 (101)

Post natiuitatem d. n. I. C. octouianus augustus imperauit annos xiiii.

Dr Liebermann continues :

"The beginning and end of this again agree exactly with Codex 8.

Text ends 146 (14) b, col. 1, l. 5 :

in domo fratrum ordinis b. marie de monte carmeli est defunctus.

"There is a short but interesting continuation to Pseudo-Frederick II in the same hand :

Et in eodem portu multe naues et uasa naualia propter elaciones maris terribiles incurrerunt naufragium.

Ends with paragraph on Pseudo-Frederick :

Anno gracie m^o cc lxxx^o iiii^{to} cum per xxxii annos et amplius sedes imperialis uacasset apparuit in Alemannia Frethericus de quo superius mencio facta fuit imperialem uendicans dignitatem non sine admiratione multorum hunc dicencium antichristum pro eo quod ante mortuus putabatur. Ille uero se fuisse Imperatorem argumento uisibili comprobauit narrans quomodo per supradicta tempora iacuisset in habitu peregrino agens penitentiam per consilium patris patrum.

"The writer apparently believes in this impostor, and the passage therefore would seem to have been written before it was known that the false Frederick had been burned as a heretic.

ff. 147, 148 deal with the pontificate of Martin IV. This piece is nothing but the end of the Continuatio Romana Pontificum."

These leaves, 147, 148 (122-3), are in a later hand.

Tempore Martini pape III a. d. m. cc^o lxxxi. quadam die dominica per quendam latinum de familia regis ff. 149-151 (124-126) blank.

—misericorditer a deo largiuntur. Et qui scripsit hec uidit ea.

III. Cent. xiii late?: double columns of 39 lines.

Ends f. 169 (144):

Treis en persones et un en maiestez. Amen.

In the tract previously cited M. Paul Meyer gives an account of this poem and prints ll. 1-184 and about 32 lines at the end with variants from the MS. Dd. 10. 31 in the University Library; another copy is in MS. Gg. 6. 28, and a fragment in Bodley MS. Douce 210. The poem was previously undescribed (Meyer, l. c., pp. 336-340).

On 169^b, in a hand of cent. xiv late, is:

Nomina Regum Christianorum in Anglia.

The first hand ends with Edward III. Richard II has been added.

- ccxix^o. Libellus de regulis Abaci.
- ccxxiii^o. Tabula de clauibus terminorum.

According to this numeration there are 204 leaves at present in the volume: there were then originally about 20 more.

At the end some one has pencilled A.D. 1060: but the book is not, I think, so early.

Wagstaff, 3469.

Collation: 1¹⁶ (2 canc.) 2¹⁶ (5-7 canc.).

Contents :

Forma componendi Cartas (no title).

Carta est quoddam scriptum sigillatum de re immobili cum condicione uel sine condicione.

Consists of Regulae and Formulae mainly. Most of the charters are made out in the name or with the initials of Thomas Sampson dominus de Wynton. The monastic formulae refer to the monastery of O (Oseney?), the episcopal to the Bishop of Worcester.

Ends with Questiones cartarum :

Musing vpon the resteles besynesse.

Stanza 288 of Furnivall's ed. (E. E. T. S. 1897) is omitted.

It is the last of the Proem.

The text appears to be complete down to 93*b*, which ends with st. 767: and per lete hym lye.

Instead of stanzas 772-80, which end the poem, we have on f. 94*a* sqq. what I suppose to be an extract from Lydgate's Bochas:

In this chapitle Bochas reprevith and blameth not oonly princis but al them that ouer lightly geuith credence to euery tale and fable whiche is reported vnto hym.

Al though so be in euery maner age ffolkes ben dyuers of condicyounes.

Story of Hippolytus and Theseus, ending 98*b*:

Next neighbour vnto Repentaunce
To alle that trust and haue in hir plesance.

Then follows:

The lenuoye of this tragedye, 98*b*.

Princes considerith hough in euery age ffolkes ben dyuers of ther condicyoun and yeueth no credence without avisement.

99*b*: What is more stronge than is a lyoun or more soot than hony in tastyng.

The 4th and last stanza on this page ends:

And alle husbandes pray god geve þem sorew
That to them telle þer councelle.... or morewe(?).

f. 3 a sqq. 46 full-page pictures enclosed in coloured frames with squares in corners and various patterns. They occupy 3 quires A⁸ B⁸ C⁷. 46 seems an odd number, but I cannot detect the gap. Cent. xiii, finest work. English?

1. de creacione bestiarum. Ge. i. fecit deus bestias terre et cetera.

Trefoiled arch with architecture above. Clouds, sun and moon at the top, blue chequered ground, red spots. Christ facing R., cruciform and cusped nimb, L. hand holds robe, R. points. Eagle and two white birds in air; owl, peacock and two others in a tree. Lions, deer, ox, dog, etc. stand face L.

2. De formatione ade & eve. Ge. ij. formavit igitur dñs.

Red reticulation, Creation of Eve, L. Christ. Adam asleep on mound with trees and dog and hare. Christ takes Eve's hand. Sun, moon and clouds above. Usual scheme in other respects.

3. De serpente decipiente adam et eam. Ge. iij.

Blue ground, red patterns, red tree, three branches, red and blue leaves. Serpent has woman's head and arms, hair in a net, and linen coif. Eve L., Adam R. Eve has yellow hair, Adam dark.

4. Cherubim eiecit Adam et eam de paradiso. Ge. iii.

Expulsion, gate L. Clouds, sun, moon above: red reticulated ground. Angel with cusped nimbus and fillet, flaming sword. Adam and Eve with figleaves. Tree on R.

5. Toil. Blue ground, pattern of red spray. Clouds above. Half-length angel emerges downwards from them. Tree. Adam digs and looks up backward. Tree. Eve on mound spinning. Drapery round waists of both. De penis inflictis Ade et eve et eorum posteritati. Ge. iii.

6. Sacrifices of Cain and Abel. Pink reticulated ground. Half-length angel emerges from clouds. Abel, beardless, in long robes, with a fine face and cusped nimbus, kneels face R., puts a lamb into a flame on a mound. Cain in shorter robes faces L. standing, beardless, close cap tied under chin. Holds a sheaf. De oblacionibus abel et caym deo factis. Ge. iiii.

7. Death of Abel. Blue ground with red rosettes.

Tree, three branches, on it a monkey shooting with a bow at an owl and another bird. Cain straddling over prostrate Abel, jawbone raised in L. hand, R. hand in Abel's hair, who has no nimbus and is smiling. Tree on R. De caym qui interfecit abel fratrem suum. Ge. iiii.

8. Conviction of Cain. Pink chequer.

Tree. Christ, face R., upright blank scroll in L. hand, R. hand raised. Cain goes off R. looking back at him, he has a blue iron hook and scythe on shoulder, sickle in girdle, bare head, two short horns curving forward. De egressu cayn a facie domini qui habitavit in terra profugus. Ge. iiii.

9. Command to Noe. Blue ground, patterns.

Christ admonishing. Scroll in L., R. raised. Noe kneels on one knee face L., peaked cap, axe on shoulder. De Noe recipiente mandatum domini. Ge. v.

10. Building of the Ark. Pink and yellow retic. Sun, moon and clouds above.

The Ark has its keel fixed in two cleft stumps. Noe's hood and cloak lie below. A dragon's head at each end of the ark. Noe leans his chest on an auger and turns it with both hands. Half the sides are built. De noe fabricante archam. Ge. vi.

11. Entering into the Ark. Blue chequer. Sun, moon and clouds.

Crowd of six, in front Noe's wife. Noe mounts a ladder into the ark, which has four stories besides the hull. It rests on dark green waters which are full of dead men and beasts: animals and birds seen at windows of ark, birds in three upper stories. De ingressu noe in archam cum filiis suis. Ge. viij.

12. Abraham and Melchisedech. Pink and vermilion retic. Sun, etc.

Three men in mail (as Trinity Apocalypse, covering the head); Abraham is the foremost one, he bows. Melchisedech comes from R.: he wears a foliated crown and a single robe, long and blue, and a white scarf passing round his neck which holds three loaves and a jug depends from it. De uictoria abrahe contra iiij^{or} reges et de occursu melchisedech offerens ei panem et uinum. Ge. xiiii.

13. Abraham and the Trinity. Blue ground with patterns.

Abraham kneels, face R. and hands raised, to a large figure, seated full-face on cushioned (backless) throne. Its hands are raised, the palms outward. It has three beardless heads with cusped nimbi and two uplifted wings, and wears a blue robe over red. De domino apparente abrahe in figura trinitatis. Ge. xviii.

14. Abraham offers bread and wine to the Trinity. Red ground latticed.

The same figure. Abraham on R. kneels and offers a covered jug and three cakes. De abraham offerente panem et uinum tribus angelis. Ge. xvi (!).

15. Sacrifice of Isaac. Blue ground latticed.

Angel coming out of cloud seizes the blade of the sword by the middle and points down to the ram standing by a tree. Abraham in scarlet with sword raised over shoulder looks round, L. hand on forehead of Isaac who kneels with hands bound on vested stone altar. Below this an ass with a packsaddle, grazing. De temptatione abraham et immolatione arietis. Ge. xvii.

16. Judgment of Solomon. Red chequer.

Dead child on the ground in graveclothes. Two women face R. The second holds a nude living child. Its hand is caught by a mailed soldier who stands behind. Solomon cross-legged holding upright sword, foliated crown, L. hand in string round neck, slight beard. He is on a cushioned seat. Below this picture are three couplets De iudicio salomonis duarum meretricum de infante diuidendo iii. Reg. iii.

*Diuide, rex inquit, hec annuit illa reclamationat.
Tunc rex. ecce parens nam uice matris amat.*

*De leto pueri que plus est uisa moueri
Assertrix ueri potuit merendo uideri.*

*Non mihi nec tibi det puerum rex immo trucidet
Nolo trucidetur, immo truci tibi detur.*

17. Annunciation. Gold ground, incised pattern: roof above. A second artist begins at this point.

Angel, palm and scroll AUE : MARIA: blue cusped nimbus. Plant in pot. Virgin turning from book-desk. Dove at her ear on R. with blue cusped nimb. De conceptione saluatoris. Luc. i.

18. Visitation. Red latticed, white rings at intersection.

They embrace, one nimbus is blue, one scarlet, both cusped. De osculo marie et elysabeth. Luc. i. Exultauit infans, etc.

19. Nativity. Gold patterned.

20. Angel and Shepherds. Ground blue patterned, and dark red.

Angel stands palm in hand, pointing. First shepherd holds in a barking dog and pushes his cap off his brow. Cattle on a mound. On the top a second youthful shepherd in red hood sits cutting a stick laid across his lap. De angelo nunciante pastoribus gaudium magnum. Luc. ii.

21. Journey of the Magi. Gold hatching and blue retic.

The Magi on horseback with foliated crowns (two of gold) point in different directions, one on L. is beardless, the one in C. bearded, the one on R. older. De tribus regibus uenientibus ab oriente querentibus ubi puer nasceretur. Mt. ii.

22. The Magi and Herod. Ground as in no. 20, counterchanged.

The Magi, on foot, face R. The foremost holds two white gloves in L., R. raised. Herod in a chair cross-legged, R. hand on knee, L. over back of chair. De tribus regibus clam uocatis ab herode qui diligenter didicit ab eis tempus stelle que apparuit eis. Mt. ii.

23. Adoration of the Magi. Gold hatching, rubbed.

Christ on the Virgin's knee, in a purple robe over scarlet and green, blesses. He has hair, and a cross-nimb. She is crowned (cusped nimbus). Two Magi stand, one kneels. De muneribus magorum Ihesu saluatori oblati. Mt. ii.

24. Magi warned. Blue and brown.

The three are in bed. Two sleep, the furthest one sits up and holds out hands toward half-length Angel flying down from the R. with a scroll. De accepto in sompnis ne magi redirent ad herodem. Mt. ii.

25. Presentation. Gold.

From L. Joseph with doves. Zebel, gold nimb. The Virgin, red nimbus, supports Christ standing on marble altar and looking back at her. He has cross-nimb, purple robe, small book in hand. Simeon, red nimb, cloth over hands, which are stretched out to Christ. De purificatione beate marie uidelicet de ypopanti domini. Luc. ii.

26. Massacre of the Innocents.

Four mailed soldiers (faces as in Trin. Apoc.), three children, one mother, holding broad leaf-like object, scarlet (a clothes-bat). Herod on throne which has hairy legs, cross-legged, sword in hand, red crown. De nece paruulorum innocentum. Mt. ii.

27. Flight. Gold.

Christ in swaddling clothes. The Virgin in long blue robe drawn over head. Joseph, coat on stick over shoulder, leads ass to R. De fuga saluatoris in egiptum. Mt. ii.

28. Baptism of Christ.

John, long hair, in two robes, the upper one hairy, pours water from a jug on the hair or shoulders of Christ (full-face, nude, blessing) standing in heap of green waters. Dove, vertically head downwards, cross-nimbed, over him. Angel on R. with seamless coat over arm, full-face, but looks L. De ihesu baptizato in iordane a iohanne baptista. Mt. iii. Mar. i. Luc. iii.

29. Lazarus raised. Gold.

Peter. Christ in awkward pose, book in L. held to body, R. arm straight out. Lazarus sits up in his graveclothes in tomb on three open arches. One of three nimbed women on the other side of the tomb supports him. De suscitacione lazari. Jo. xi.

30. Entry into Jerusalem. Red, patterned.

Four Apostles and Peter with key on shoulder. Christ on ass, blessing. Foal walks beneath ass. A man takes his robe (semi-transparent) off over his head; only his drawers are left. R. gate and tower in three stages with people in each. In the two lowest, children with leaves. De processione obuam saluatore in die palmarum. Mt. xi (!)

31. Cena Domini. Gold, hatched.

Three Apostles, Peter face R., Christ, large cruciform nimbus Andrew? Two Apostles.

They stand on grounds below the frame. De saluatore cruci affixo. Mt. xxvii. Marc. xv. Luc. xxiii. Joh. xix.

35. Descent into Hell. Ground as for 33.

Christ, spear with small cross and pennon, its point in the mouth of a beast on which he treads. In L. hand he takes the hand of Adam. Eight souls. Adam, Eve, David with crown, are recognisable. Three devils behind, two with hooks, one blows horn. Gates lie crosswise in Hell-mouth. De saluatore descendente ad inferos ut spoliaret infernum.

36. Deposition. Gold, no arch. Sun and moon in clouds (smaller than those in the earlier pictures), ground reaches below frame.

Virgin takes hand of Christ. Man supports the body. R. kneeling man takes out the nail of the feet with long pincers. John stands R., hands raised. De corpore saluatoris a pilato concesso Joseph ab armithia. Marc. xv in fine.

37. Burial. Red, latticed.

Four mailed men with pennoned lances sleeping in three arches of the tomb. Man in cap at the head, another at the feet. Five figures on the other side of the tomb: John, the Virgin? in red, a man without nimbe, with vase, two nimbed women. The Body in a purple robe with green border. De tribus mariis uenientibus mane ad sepulchrum saluatoris militibus custodientibus corpus Ihesu sed dormientibus. Marc. ult.

The title and picture here do not agree.

38. Ascension. Blue, latticed.

Christ full-length in clouds with book, blessing. An angel in air on each side, points. Four Apostles and Peter on L. The Virgin in the centre. Five Apostles and Andrew? on R. De ascensione domini. Marc. ult. in fine et Ac. ii.

39. Pentecost. Red, latticed.

The Dove descends vertically from the clouds. Red lines go from it to the heads of the assembly. L. five Apostles and Peter with the keys, seated. C. the Virgin, crowned. R. Andrew with his saltire cross and four Apostles. De missione spiritus sancti in apostolos domini. Ac. ii.

40. Last Judgment. Divided in two, horizontally.

a. Angel with cross. Virgin crowned kneeling. Christ seated in octofoil, robed, holding up His hands. John Baptist, bearded and nimbed, kneels, face L. Angel with lance and scourge.

β. At the corners four Angels coming out of clouds, with trumpets. C. a circle containing (1) Peter and the Blessed (e.g. a King and a Bishop); (2) the Cursed in Hell-mouth; (3) four rising. De saluatore ueniente (bis) ab ultimū iudiciū. Mt. xxv. ubi dicitur. Venite benedicti, etc.

41. Sickness of the Virgin. A peaked tent-like roof (green), ground below red, above blue.

42. Death of the Virgin. Gold ground (broken).

Virgin with hands crossed, in a costume much resembling a chasuble and alb, lies on bier. Beyond it John with palm, Peter with key. Angel with soul seated in his arms, robed and crowned. Paul with book. Other Apostles on R. De morte b. marie et de anima eius suscepta ab angelis.

43. De iudeis pendentibus ad feretrum b. virginis. Blue ground, latticed.

Bier carried by John at the head and five Apostles. The Virgin's face is seen. Three Jews, with feet off the ground and hands attached to the pall, one has a cap, two look like boys. At the foot Peter (Paul) and four Apostles.

44. Burial. Gold ground.

Marble tomb on three open trefoil arches: in it the Virgin, hands crossed on breast. John and five Apostles at the head, Peter and five at the foot, lay the stone over her. Two angels censing out of the clouds. De maria mortua et in monumento sepulta.

45. Coronation. An octofoil: ground red within, blue without, latticed.

The Virgin seated with hands joined. Christ crowned, with orb, divided into three portions as usual, and with bannered cross, adjusts the crown on her head. Both crowns are blue. De b. maria a ihesu filio suo et saluatore nostro in celis coronata.

46. De David zitharizante cum cythara sua & cane suo. Gold ground, mostly gone.

He sits on a cushioned seat; with red nimbus, in mail, over which is a long blue robe which partly covers his crown. The harp is very elaborately carved with a dragon, and a pierced sounding-board. David has long bushy hair and beard. A little fat white dog sits smiling on L. on the seat, face R.

The book was shown at the Burlington Fine Arts Club Exhibition of MSS. in 1908: Mr S. C. Cockerell in his Catalogue (no. 48) says of the latter portion that it was written between 1397 and 1400, for a member of the Holland family, probably Sir Thomas Holland, Duke of Surrey and third Earl of Kent. In the thirteenth century pictures he distinguishes the work of three artists¹. Of the pictures in general he says: They are monumental compositions of the greatest interest and importance, and it is unfortunate that there is no clue to their place of origin.

This looks like the Kalendar of an English dependency of a French abbey.

On the fore edges are painted shields, now very faint: one has or some lions rampant gules, another apparently gules a lion rampant sable or azure.

The ornament is of fine quality.

In the Kalendar the initial to each month has a picture of the occupation on gold ground: the sign is in a medallion with gold border and coloured ground alternately blue and red.

Jan. Janus-headed figure at table drinks out of horn and holds a bird (?) on a spit upright.

Aquarius running pours water out of green jar.

Feb. holds up his boot and warms his foot at fire on R. Pisces.

Mar. digs. Aries.

Ap. Woman holds flowering branch. Taurus, red.

- May.* Youth on horse, hawk on hand, rides to L.
 Gemini in blue cloaks over red hold a green shield.
June cuts herbs, with hook and cleft staff.
 Cancer, ridiculous : eight-legged.
July with scythe. Leo, dark blue.
Aug. Two men, one holds sickle and looks up, one reaps.
 Virgo holds flowering branch.
Sept. threshes. Libra held by man in blue tunic.
Oct. sows : he has green basket with wooden bands.
 Scorpius, a winged dragon perched on a rock.
Nov. gathers fruit into basket, with knife.
 Sagittarius, centaur, shoots back to R.
Dec. kills black pig with back of axe.
 Capricorn with fish's tail.

The frontispiece to the Psalter (7 b) is a very fine full-page B, principally in pink, gold and blue on dark blue ground, outside which is a band of patterned gold : beyond this are borders of pink and blue. At the angles medallions, each containing two birds. The B is filled with fine interlacings of conventional foliage.

Each Psalm has a very handsome initial in colour on gold ground, set in a square alternately of pink and blue. Several contain birds or animals, and a good many dragons or other monsters. The following are specially noteworthy :

- f. 20 b. Celi enarrant. Monkey eating apple.
 f. 24. Dominus regit me. Bust of woman, full-face, in red robe.
 f. 26. Dominus illuminatio. Large and fine decorative initial.

234. MUSIC FOR MASSES.

K. 31

Vellum, $12\frac{3}{4} \times 9$, ff. 32 + 3, nine five-lined staves of music to page. Cent. xvi early.

Donor, T. Baker.

Vellum wrapper, inscribed in large letters :

Launcelot Prior Bassus.

A monogram of L and S (the latter in red) and a shield bearing a maunche (Hastings) follow. On the left is a large faint monogram in which the letter P occurs.

Collation : 2 flyleaves, 1⁸-4⁸, 1 flyleaf.

The flyleaves are from an account roll containing manorial accounts of cent. xv early, relating chiefly to Benacre in Suffolk. The aula de Ponynges is often mentioned.

The volume was lent to the Bologna International Exhibition of Music, 1888. It contains the bass part of Masses, etc., by composers of the early part of the xvith cent., viz. :

Aue dei patris	f. 1
Words begin : Aue summe eternitatis filia.
At end : Quod Doctor ffayrfax.
Lauda vivi (ora pro rege nostro henrico octauo inclito)	2
Lauda fortis spirantis filia. quod Doctor ffairfax.
O bone Ihesu	3
O domine celi et terre	4 b
Stabat mater	5 b
Eterne laudis	7
Te matrem	8
Plaude potentissime	9
Aue dei patris	11
Aue fuit salus	12
Gaude plurimum	13 b
ff. 15, 16 blank. On 16 b a note by T. Baker on Dr Fairfax, and on Henry VIII's own music.
Missa de Regali	17

! On f. 10 is the direction gimel.

Expl. Regali. Quod Dr ffayrfax.
Missa de O bone Ihesu	f. 20
ffinis de O bone Ihesu. Quod Dr ffayrfax.
Te deum messe	23
Quod Hew Awsten.
Cristus resurgens (Mass)	25 b
Quod Wylliam Pasche.
God save kyng herry (Mass)	28 b
Quod Thomas Aschwell.
Part of a Magnificat in another hand	31 b
Quod dr ffayrfax.
32 b blank.

There is some rather pretty ornament in the initials, some of which are in gold.

The volume containing the Tenor part of these compositions is in the University Library (Dd. 13. 27): it is written in the same style as the St John's MS.

K. 32. See Appendix.

235. CHAUCER.

L. 1

Vellum, 10 × 6 $\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 119 + 2 + 8, mostly 5 stanzas of 7 lines to a page. Cent. xv, and xvi.

Collation: 1 flyleaf, a¹²-g¹² (12 canc.) h¹²-k¹², 1 flyleaf, aa⁴ bb⁴.

Contents:

- I. Chaucer's Troilus and Criseide f. 1
 The dowble sorowe of Troilus to tellen.
 Some variants from a printed edition are noted in a xviith cent. hand. The MS. was consulted by Professor Skeat for his edition; he thinks it perhaps earlier than 1450.
 Ends f. 119 b:
 ffor loue of mayde and moder thyn benyngne.
 Expl. liber Troili et Criseidis.
 Eight scribbled lines of English follow.
 Thys world ys suttell and dissayvabull, etc.
 On the flyleaf:
 Iste liber pertinet Johanni Treuehall ex donacione (erasure).
 On the verso various scribbles.
- II. The Testament of Criseide (by Henryson).
 In a hand of cent. xvi: at first 5 stanzas, then 10 on a page:
 A doly season till a carefull dite
 Should correspond and be aequivalent
 ...
 Ending: Of faire Creiseid as I haue said before,
 Sith shee is dedd I speake of her noe more.
 Expl. Lib. Troili et Creiseidos.
 Ed. by Skeat, Chaucerian and other pieces, no. xvii.

L. 2-8. See Appendix.

236. CONCILIUM LONDONIENSE.

L. 9

Vellum charter, $19\frac{3}{4} \times 13$. Cent. xi.

Donor, T. Baker, who endorses it thus:

Exemplar hoc MS. mihi ab A. Bosvile Bibliopola Londin: donatum, dono Collegio S. Joh. Cant:

There is an original endorsement:

Concilium Willelmi Regis et lanfranci archiep. apud london. de primatu Cant. ecclesie et Regulis ecclesiarum.

and a somewhat later one: De primatu.

Text:

Anno incarnationis dominice M LXXXV
—fauorem commodet.

The names and marks of the members of the council follow, beginning with Lanfranc and ending with the Abbot of Cernel (Cerne). All are described as bishops or abbots save the Archdeacon of Canterbury and 'Osirich de hortuna' (printed in Wilkins as 'abbas de hortuna').

The text agrees very closely with that in Spelman, Concilia II 7, and Wilkins, Concilia I 362, which is taken from a register at Worcester (the only copy, other than this, which gives all the subscriptions) and from a Canterbury MS. A. VII. 6 in the Chapter Library. William of Malmesbury, Gest. Pont. p. 66, gives a shortened text.

This copy is contemporary, I should think, with the Council.

There is a certain variety in the signatures of the subscribers which at first sight gives the impression that they may be autographs.

Collier, Eccl. Hist. II 19, refers in the margin to this copy.

237. POEMS ON KALENDAR, ETC., ENGLISH.

L. 10

Vellum, $7\frac{1}{8} \times 5$, ff. 21 + 1, 19 lines to a page. Cent. xv.

239. BIBLIA.

N. 1

Vellum, $10\frac{1}{4} \times 7$, ff. 408 + 1, double columns of 48 lines. Cent. xiii, in a good English hand.

Donor, Carolus Hotham, A. M. Soc. 1689.

Collation: 1⁴ 2¹²—34¹² 35⁸, 1 flyleaf.

Contents :

On f. 380 b, left blank, was a full-page pencil drawing of the Crucifixion, with the Virgin and St John, which has been mostly rubbed out.

Proper Prefaces and Canon, etc., of the Mass f. 381

Offices for the year, forming what may be called an abbreviated Missal 382

Interpretationes nominum in quadruple columns 389

Aaz, etc., ending imperfectly in T. (Tholmai).

The initials are usually in gold with curious green flourishing.

In the Kalendar:

Jan. 17. Speusippi, Eleusippi, Meleusippi, MM.

Feb. 4. Gileberti Conf., in blue.

Mar. 1. Albin ep. C.

Sept. 19. Sequani Abb.

Oct. 12. Wilfridi Ep. c.

13. Transl. S. Gileberti C., in red.

Nov. 17. Hugonis Ep. Lincoln, in blue.

Among the Masses at the end are one for St Gilbert, and one for the Translation of St Thomas of Canterbury.

The book evidently belonged to a Gilbertine house.

On the flyleaf at end are these notes:

Anno domini m^o cc^o quadragessimo peruenit ad nos hec scriptura. apparuit manus scribens hec uerba. Cedrus alta libani succidetur, etc.

Prophetia Ioachim.

Illustrations:

1. Matins of the Virgin: Full border of line and leaf work with solid inner band of gold and colour and insertions of grotesques, etc.

Annunciation. Gabriel on L. with scroll: ave—tecum.

The other Hours have mostly only border and initial.

2. Memoriae in Lauds. The Trinity (Italian): the Father supporting before Him the crucified Son, over whose head is the Dove. On L. and R. kneel a man and wife in blue with scrolls: Sit nomen domini benedictum. Ex hoc nunc et usque in seculum.

In border, angels: two with scrolls, Gloria tibi trinitas equalis una deitas.

3. Prime. The Virgin and Child seated on red quilt under roof. Cradle on R. Ox, ass, and Joseph seen over green paling.

In several borders is a monogram L G M.

4. Seven Psalms. David kneels in landscape, on scarlet: harp on R. Christ's head in sky.

In border the letters ll | y g |.

5. Hours of the Holy Ghost. Pentecost. Virgin in C. Dove above.

In border two small defaced scrolls pour(?) la... and ...elle.

6. Hours of the Cross. The Crucifixion, with the Virgin and St John.

7. Office of the Dead. Chequered ground. In front, coffin with blue pall and two candles. Two clerks at desk: two mourners on L.

The borders are better than the pictures, but neither are of very high class.

A slip in another hand with an omitted passage about the absence of the Abp from the election of a Prior.

This may well be a fragment of one of Prior Eastry's registers.

245. PRIOR THOMAS RINGMER.

N. 7

Vellum, 12 × 7 $\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 12, 42 lines to a page. Cent. xiv?, fairly well written.
Collation: a², b¹⁰.

Contents:

Narrative of quarrels between Prior Thomas Ringmer, of Christ Church, Canterbury, and his monks, chiefly after the accession of Abp John Peckham, about 1280-1. It is written by one very hostile to the Prior.

Ringmer was Prior from 1274 to 1285, when he assumed the Cistercian habit and retired to Beaulieu.

It does not appear to me that this narrative, which seems interesting, has been used by writers on Canterbury.

The text begins after a blank flyleaf:

Cum sancta Cantuariensis ecclesia inter omnes ecclesias occidentales dignitate prefulgeat, and ends f. 12 b, unfinished or imperfect:

duo eorundem scilicet R. Pikenot et W. de Tonghe horam competentem expectantes de consilio fratrum clam exierunt et iter uersus curiam Romanam arripientes ad eandem tandem peruenerunt.

This also may very well have formed part of a Register.

The first leaf of each Hour removed.
Seven Psalms and Litany, first leaf gone and Litany mutilated	61
O intemerata, first leaf gone, 85. Obsecro te, 89 b .

In the Kalendar :

Feb. 2. Brigide.	Sept. 5. Transl. S. cuthberti.
13. Ermenilde.	16. Eadithe.
Mar. 2. Albini.	25. Firmini.

Aug. 6. Oswald, in red .	17. Hugonis Ep.
31. Cuthburga.	20. Edmundi R., in red .

In the Litany : Martyrs (imperfect) : Kenelm, Edward, Oswald, Alban, Edmund, Thomas.

Confessors : Cuthbert, Wilfrid, Swithin, Dunstan, John (of Beverley), Aidan, Botulph, . . . Wulstan, Hugo.

Virgins : Kynesburga, Kyneswitha . . . Etheldreda, Sexburga, Werburga, Milburga, Mildreda.

The occurrence of Kyneburga and Kyneswitha (Peterborough) and the prominence of Hugo (of Lincoln) point clearly to that part of England as the home of the owner.

The ornament that survives in the kalendar shows that what is lost must have been of good, but not exceptionally good, quality.

252. PSALTER.

N. 19

Vellum, $9 \times 6\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 153, 21 lines to a page. Cent. xiii late, finely written, with rough but good decoration.

Bookplate of Sir S. Prime.

Collation : 1^o (wants 1) 2^a 3^a–7^a (wants 1) 8^a–20^a 21[?] (one left).

Contents :

Kalendar (wanting Jan., Feb.) in red and black	f. 1
Four full-page pictures on one side of the leaf, the blank sides scribbled with receipts, etc.	6
Psalter	10
Cantica, ending with one leaf of the Litany	140

In the Kalendar:

- Mar.* 17. Girtrudis V.
May 11. Fremundi reg. m., added.
June 7. Added, Obitus Eue Tibotots.
Sept. 25. Firmin.
Oct. 1. Remigii, Germani, Bauonis.
 2. Leodegarii.
 13. Eadwardi reg. C., added.
 14. Donatiani Ep.
 22. Seueri Ep. 23. Seuerini Ep. 24. Vitalis Ep.
 26. Amandi Ep.
Nov. 7. Willibrordi Ep.
 The two Edmunds added.
Dec. 1. Eligii C.
 14. Nicasii Ep.

The Litany is mutilated and the invocations of saints wholly gone.

The provenance is probably the lower Rhine.

On the blank sides of ff. 6-9 are various entries:

Three receipts (xiii late) in French.

Note:

Anno domini 1544. Obsesa erat villa bolonie per henricum octauum Regem anglie et ab ipso Rege capta...septembris eodem anno Rege presente.

An erased note.

Notes of storms, etc., dated (one in 1576) "about Caunterbury."

On f. 80, before Exultate, on a page and a half left blank, is the hymn:

Iuste iudex Ihesu Christe rex regum et domine, and some other prayers.

The pictures are rough but carefully done.

Those in the Kalendar are in gold frames usually peaked at top, the grounds alternately blue and pink.

- | | |
|--|---|
| Mar. Man cutting branches off a tree. | Apr. Youth holding two branches. |
| May. Youth holding hawk and jesses. | June. Carrying faggot for bonfire. |
| July. Mowing. Aug. Reaping. | Sept. Sowing. |
| Oct. Gathering grapes. Nov. with bough which he is about to throw into a tree: | pigs feeding. |
| Dec. Kills pig with back of axe. | |

The full-page pictures have gold grounds and rather elaborate architectural tops: frames of blue and pink with lozenges at corners.

1. Annunciation. Two trefoil arches. Gabriel stands on L.
2. Nativity. Virgin reclines, reading book. Joseph on R. sits sleeping. Ox and ass and swaddled child in manger in C. Curtains behind.
3. Crucifixion, with Virgin and John. Christ's side wounded. Sun and moon in sky.
4. Initial B. Christ stands holding tripartite globe and blessing; face R. Sun and moon in cloud: tree on R.

Each Psalm has gold initial with pink and blue ground and a long thick tail of three colours spreading up and down. The historiated initials are:

Dominus illum. Beardless nimbed figure seated.

Dixi custodiam. Gone.

Quid gloriaris. Beardless figure as before, with raised hands.

Dixit insipiens. " " seated full face, defaced.

Saluum me fac. Beardless figure.

Exultate. Bearded figure. Cantate. Beardless figure. Domine exaudi. Similar.

Dixit Dominus. Similar.

The book closely resembles in aspect (and especially in the Kalendar pictures) a Psalter at Magdalene College, no. 8 in my Catalogue.

253. AUGUSTINUS. CASSIODORUS.

N. 20

Vellum, $9\frac{7}{8} \times 6\frac{7}{8}$, ff. 117, double columns of 27 lines and single of 31. Cent. xii-xiii, in two good hands.

A note partly in French at the end, and a multiplication table with Arabic numerals from 1 to 10.

Sermones per annum.

Rex tuus uenit. mt. xix. Karissimi captiuorum liberator olim.

The last is on Uere dominus est in loco isto gen. 28.

The Sanctoral begins on p. 269. It includes Thomas of Canterbury, 'Doctor Antonius,' Translation of St Francis, Anthony, Francis, Edmund (of Canterbury).

After All Saints are some supplementary sermons belonging to the Proper of Time. The last of all are on the Dedication of the Church.

The collection is apparently Franciscan. English words and phrases are of fairly frequent occurrence.

S. 20–29. See Appendix¹.

256. SOMME LE ROI, ETC.

S. 30

Vellum, $11 \times 7\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 135 + 3, double columns of 22 lines, single lines 30 to page, and double columns of 30 lines. Cent. xiv early, in two fine hands, the first very large and black.

Donor, T. Baker, who writes:

 Nou bring my saule to heuene þerin a place to fille.
Aue, etc.
 Two prayers in Latin : Aue gaude maria 270
 Deus omnip. deus messias. deus sother.

The first part of the book is illustrated with historiated initials of very fine execution on gold grounds, and with some partial borders in which the English (?) daisy bud is a prominent feature.

p. 1. Initial. Christ seated with orb, in which is a tall cross; surrounded by the Evangelistic emblems.

In lower margin: Moses, horned, receives the tables of the law from Christ in a cloud. Fine border.

p. 12. Articles of Faith. A group of six apostles (Peter and John distinguishable): very finely drawn.

p. 18. John seated at desk, an eagle's head in cloud on R. holds a scroll iohanne which rests on the desk.

Lower margin: A dark spotted beast with seven heads and ten horns with crowns.

On p. 99 is a marginal pencil sketch of a grotesque head and legs.

p. 113. A nimbed Apostle addresses a seated and standing group of five on R.

p. 117. Augustine (?), nimbed, in dark blue habit and skull cap, sits on green seat with desk attached and addresses four people sitting and standing on R.

Gardez vous bien de tencer. Cest le diable enco(m)brer.

p. 127. Death. A corpse with red and green cloak pierces with a spear a king seated on R.: somewhat rubbed.

p. 139. Wheel of Fortune. She stands behind the wheel with her hands on the spokes: four figures are on the tyre as usual; the one at top crowned, the one at bottom almost nude. Inside the wheel the ground is gold: outside it is blue and red patterned. A brown-red frame has the usual verse in white capitals:

RENGNABO · RENGNO · RENGNAUI · SUM SINE RENGNO.

p. 143 (Pater noster). A doctor in blue habit over red, and skull cap, sits holding birch rod and addressing five seated boys: a sixth stands holding a tablet inscribed + a. b. c. etc.

p. 145. Christ seated on a chair at the top of steps, with book, addresses a group of Apostles (not all are nimbed) on R.

p. 164. Paul with sword addresses seated men on R.

The drawing of these pictures is extremely delicate.

The ordinary initials are mostly in blue, with fine filling-in in red pen-work.

S. 31-34. See Appendix.

257. MANUAL OF CONFESSOR.

S. 35

Vellum and paper, $8\frac{1}{8} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 89: 39, 24, etc., lines to a page. Cent. xv, in two hands, one good.

Vellum wrapper composed of a folded leaf of a folio MS. (Canon Law). On the 2nd cover is a button of horn and in large letters the word Confessio twice written.

Collation: 1¹⁶ (wants 1 in 2nd half) 2²⁰ wanting one, with many quires inserted in 2nd half, viz.: after 11th a², after 16th b² (+ 1) c⁴-e⁴ f⁸ g⁸ (+ 2 before 8) h⁴ i⁸ (wants 2) | 3⁸ (+ 2 after 5).

Contents :

A Confessor's Manual, in English and Latin.

The first hand has written ff. 1-26, 30-34, 77-80, and has left some blanks, which have been filled, and more leaves added, by the second hand.

The first hand begins :

Pride. 7 peccata mortalia

J counceile you to be sorie for 3oure synne.

The last things written by this hand are the ten commandments, etc., etc., and Casus episcopales. The main part of the text is occupied with enquiries to be made of penitents, and penances, etc.

The second hand, writing mostly in Latin, amplifies these topics.

S. 36-52. See Appendix.

258. DE VITIIS, ETC.

S. 53

Vellum, $4\frac{7}{8} \times 3\frac{1}{4}$, ff. 74 + 3, 16 lines to a page. Cent. xiii-xiv, in a large clear hand.

Bound in a bit of a xvth cent. deed.

Donor, T. Baker.

At the end : Leonardi Aglionbei sum (xvi).

Collation : 1¹² (wants 1) 2¹²-6¹² 7⁷ (3), 3 flyleaves.

Contents :

The history of this book before its presentation to the College is fully set forth in the paragraphs quoted in the Introduction from M. Meyer's pamphlet.

In the sale catalogue of the de Pradel-Colbert de Croissi library 1740, it is described as "relié en bois couvert de velours cramoisi." This is no longer the case: the binding is brown leather of cent. xviii¹.

The two flyleaves at the beginning have been formerly bound in the reverse order. On the 1st is a set-off of the painting on f. 1 of text.

The miniatures are productions of the fine school of artists who illuminated so many of the translations done for Charles V. Another good example of their work may be seen in Cambridge in Fitzwilliam MS. 251 (Bartholomaeus Anglicus). The borders are of fine ivy leaf.

1. Painting in four compartments occupying rather less than half the page. It has unhappily suffered somewhat from damp.

a. Red ground, divided by gold lines into lozenges. Christ, in blue, on a large stone throne, blessing, with orb. On either arm of the throne is an arch : through each looks a blue angel holding (L.) a chalice, (R.) tables of law.

b. Chequer. A stone church (seen from south) with blue roof and central fleche. Large traceried windows. A stairway with roof supported by wooden posts leads up to the west door : a southern transeptal chapel, with circular window, on a lower level. A stone-walled yard.

c. Chequer. Charles V in a chair (3 men behind it) receives the book bound in red from the kneeling translator in Carmelite habit (white over black).

d. Red, with gold flourishing. The translator in his habit sits on L. in canopied wooden seat, at hexagonal desk with screw-post. Three students sit reading and listening on wooden seats on R.

Full border.

2. f. 17 b. Des cloches et de leur son. Chequer. Church with pink walls and blue roof. The side is taken away, so as to show three worshippers in the body of the church, and two men ringing two (of three) bells in the tower.

3. f. 19 b. Des cymetiers, etc. Chequer. Priest with book and asperge, deacon with holy water, in churchyard : a stone tomb, two wooden crosses, a man digging a grave, bones lying about. Trees behind.

4. f. 22 b. De la dedication de leglise. Chequer. Church seen from south, plain round-headed windows, central octagonal tower and spire, and large high western porch. In front a procession walking westward : clerk in alb, with textus, friar with bannered cross, Bishop in blue cope, deacon in red dalmatic, clerk with bucket and asperge, another, and a layman.

5. f. 29. Dedication of altar. Chequer. Church with central octagon seen in section ; chancel on R. represented as higher. Coped Bishop with censer and book at south end of altar, two deacons, one with crosier, and clerk in cope.

6. f. 37. Coronation of king. Red ground with gold pattern in squares. The king in blue mantle sits on a wooden platform supported by 4 posts : grass below. Two laymen place the crown on his head. Three robed courtiers sit on the platform. No other figures.

7. f. 48. Lib. II. Chequer. Bishop in blue cope sits blessing, on canopied wooden seat. On R. kneel a white monk, a black monk, and two laymen. Full border.

8. f. 59. De leuesque. Green ground with gold pattern in squares. Altar with retable of flourished work : at south end a deacon with crosier. A Bishop in blue cope kneels at the altar and a deacon in red dalmatic opens a book of the Gospels over his head. At the north end two Bishops, a deacon holding mitre.

9. f. 61. Lib. III. In a paved room : a priest in alb facing R., a server in red gown girds him with girdle : a stole and blue and red vestments lie on an altar on R. Full border.

10. f. 77 b. Lib. IV. In an octagonal stone building priest in blue chasuble at altar breaks the Host over the chalice. Deacon in blue on R. with cruet, one on L. with joined hands. Full border.

11. f. 116. Du canon qui est dist en secret. Red ground, gold pattern in squares. Altar with plain panelled retable, and red riddles. Priest in blue chasuble, etc., before it. On it chalice, paten, Host (on the altar) and book. Two deacons in blue on L.

12. f. 116*b*. De le exposition du canon. Chequer. Mitred prelate at altar reading from book (back turned). At S. end clerk (Abel) in red robe carrying a lamb: at N. Melchizedek (clerk in green, red and white) carrying flagon and cake. Beyond him a man carrying a child (Abraham?).

13. f. 119. Altar in background with red riddles. In front two men hold a houselling cloth. Behind this a priest in green cope with Host and chalice and a cleric in alb with chalice administers to three kneeling men. In air three demi-angels adore.

14. f. 121*b*. La quinte part de la messe. Priest in purplish chasuble, at altar, holds the Host. Two deacons on L.

15. f. 144. De prendre la plattenne. Altar with green retable, gold cross, and candles. Priest in scarlet chasuble. Deacon in scarlet dalmatic takes the paten and folds it in or unwraps it from linen. Another beyond.

16. f. 147. De la paix. Priest in blue chasuble at altar kisses deacon on R. One on L. with joined hands.

17. f. 148. Communion of the Priest. He receives the Host. The two deacons on either side of him genuflect. Blue vestments. Tower of church seen beyond.

18. Lib. v. f. 154. Of the daily and nightly offices. Chequer. In C. a rocky mount. At top of it, in a blue starred cloud, God, in red robe, half-length, holds out a white convex mirror¹ in a round frame. Below a prophet, two kings, a monk in black over brown, and a Franciscan friar look up. Trees on R. with the foliage tapering into some six points.

[Lib. VI (first leaf gone) treats of the Proper of Time.]

19. f. 189*b*. 1st Sun. in Advent. In a landscape with rocks and a "seven-pointed" tree, John Baptist on L. in a beast's skin addresses a group of four men who kneel on R.

20. f. 199. Ember days. Red ground, patterned. Bishop in blue cope enthroned: before him kneels a clerk in scarlet robe. On a desk on R. are three open books and two clerks in green and pink stand on R.

21. f. 206*b*. Candlemas. The Virgin holds the nude Child. Symeon and another man behind the altar. The former bends forward to receive the Child.

22. f. 244. Palm Sunday. Chequer. On L. two apostles each leading an ass. In C. Christ in blue speaks to them. In background on L. rocks and characteristic trees: on R. towered city with gate.

23. f. 263. Good Friday. Chequer. Christ on the cross (T-shaped). On L. the Virgin swooning, John, and three women(?). On R. the centurion (in robes, chiefly green) with scroll: Vere filius dei erat iste.

24. f. 285*b*. Easter. Chequer. Christ in red mantle steps out of the tomb to R. His resurrection cross has white banner with red cross. The lid of the tomb is cross-wise and an angel kneels on it; another is on the edge of the tomb on L. Two soldiers: one sleeps, one is terrified.

25. f. 308*b*. Pentecost. Pink ground, blue cloud at top. The Apostles and Virgin kneel. The Dove descends vertically, and from it proceed a vertical ray and curved rays branching out of that.

26. f. 314. Trinity. Chequer. The Father throned supports before Him the crucified Son, over whom is the Dove. The robe of the Father is red lined with dark blue.

27. f. 331*b*. Lib. VII. Of Saints' days. Blue starred sky above, chequer below. At top four zones: in each a row of heads (1) 4 Apostles, (2) 5 Virgins, one crowned, (3) Stephen and 4 other martyrs, (4) 3 Bishops and a monk. On the ground below kneel two groups, each of three, men and women.

28. f. 337 b. Purification. In a chapel with a pretty hexagonal domed turret at the corner the Virgin kneels (face L.) and Joseph in red stands before an altar with green retable and candlesticks.

29. f. 338. Chair of Peter. In a paved room with silvered windows Peter, beardless, in blue robe and red tiara, with keys, sits in canopied seat. Three suppliants on L. approach, one in fine scarlet and gold dress.

30. f. 338 b. Annunciation. Chequer. The Virgin kneels on R. on a gold carpet before a wooden canopied desk with red curtains. A chair, grass and trees. The angel kneels on L. The words ave gracia plena are written in yellow proceeding from his mouth. In upper L. corner, bust of the Father breathing forth rays.

31. f. 339 b. The Angels. Michael in C. standing on the dragon, with spear and red-cross shield. Two angels on R., two on L. Red seraphs on R. and L. behind.

32. f. 340. John Baptist. He sits on the grass in a landscape, pats a lamb on L., and has book on his knee. Rocks, trees and city behind.

33. f. 341. Peter and Paul. Both are being beheaded by executioners with axes, one outside a city wall, the other within. Chequered ground.

34. f. 342. James the Great. A king throned on L., a chair on square platform. Two courtiers by him. James in front is beheaded on a block with an axe. Red ground with gold pattern in squares.

35. f. 342 b. Stephen kneeling, in blue dalmatic, is stoned by two men. Chequered ground.

36. f. 343 b. Nativity of the Virgin. She stands, a child in pink dress, by St Anne, in blue, who holds her hand, at the foot of a flight of five stone steps with an altar at top, in a stone building. This represents the Presentation, not the Nativity.

37. f. 344. All Saints. Chequer. The Virgin seated in C. with open book. On R. sit Katherine, two other crowned Virgins, and others not crowned: on L. John, Peter, another apostle, a Bishop; other nimbi seen behind.

38. f. 344 b. The Dead. In a church looking East. In front a coffin with black and gold pall, and candles about it. On R. kneel a man and a woman with book, on L. a mourner. At the altar a priest, deacon and subdeacon in black and gold vestments.

Each chapter has a small good initial with sprigs of ivy leaf springing from it. The whole book is a very fine example of its class.

Instruction de la vie mortelle.

A poem in some 50,000 to 52,000 lines, of which M. Paul Meyer knew no other copy. The author's name appears at the end.

Prologue ou liure appelle linstruction de la vie mortelle ou de la vie humaine f. 1

Ezechiel nous tesmoigne en son liure
Qui le mauuais de mauuestie deliure
Par beau parler par exhortacions
Par son preschier ou ses correpcions
Quil guaingue lame du mauuais et la sienne
Et donq pourtant que je guaigue la mienne

...

Ay je uoulu commencer ce traictie
Et me plait bien sil vous plait quon lapelle
Instruction de la vie mortelle
Ou de la vie humaine le Roman.

...

Priant a tous de les parfaire et lire
Dont puissent uiure sans pechiez et sans blame
Et que ce soit au proffit de mon ame.

Coment ce liure se diuise selon les cinq sens.

En cinq parties ceste operacion
Par les cinq sens ara diuision

...

Par quoi meilleurs en puissiens deuenir
Et a la gloire ensembles paruenir.

Sensuit primier de Sedechias le philosophe.

Sedechias fut moult sage jadis
Et philozophe en ses fais et en dis.

The first book consists of sayings of philosophers, beginning with Sedechias, Hermes Trismegistus, Pittacus, Zazaquin, Salon, Zabion, Ypocras, Anaxagoire, Pitagoras, Dyogene, Socrates, Platon, Aristote, Ptholomee, Assaron, Longuion, etc. Later we have Tully and the 'flours de tulles,' Sallust, Celsus, Varro, Virgil, Valerius Max., Seneca, Quintilian (Declam.), Plutarch (ad Traianum), Pliny the elder, Boece.

Ending 26 b: les yeulx du juge qui tout va regardant.

Icy finit la premiere partie de ceste presente euure, etc.

Apres sensuit le prologue en la seconde partie, etc.

Apres cela que Jeuz sages retrait

Et mis en rime et leurs dis et leur fait.

This prologue seems interesting; it touches a good deal on the manners of the author's time. Towards the end he says :

En suppliant quil me soit pardonne
Se ma Rime est troup Rude car pas ne
Je ne fu mie de saint denis en france.
Et pour cela len doit mon ignorance
Quant a la Rime ung petit supporter.

The second part begins f. 27 b and treats of the history of the world from the Creation to the birth of John Baptist.

Quant par sa grace et sa digne bonte
Nostre seigneur sy fut entalente
De cestui monde mettre a perfection.

The text is interrupted by genealogical tables and occasional rubrics.

On ff. 32 sqq. we have the history of Aseneth and extracts from the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs.

Ends f. 75 b: Or me doint dieu parler si bonnement
De ihesu crist et son aduenement
De ses miracles et predicacion
Que se puisse estre a ma saluacion. Amen.

Rubric on the date of Christ's birth.

Prologue en la tierce partie de ceste presente Compilacion . . . f. 75 b

Après cela que je euz accompli la vi^e eage Jusques a ihesu cry.

Chiefly apologetic.

Comment premier sibile eratee prophetiza de nostre seigneur . . . 76

Mais tout premier auant qe je memploie
Es fais de dieu par une courte voie.

Treats of the life of Christ at great length, of the Acts, Assumption, etc., and ends with the death of Tiberius.

—mais des fais dempereurs

Des rois aussy deuant nostre seigneur

...

Et aux lisans tresbonne et proffitable.

Sensuit premier de lempire de Gaye et de ses moeurs 115

Gaye le quart des Romains empereur.

Treats of the subsequent history and especially of emperors, popes, and kings of France, ending with the death of Martin V (1431).

Lan mil a donq cccc xxxi
Tant du clergie ploure qe du commun.

Three quarters of the page (161 b) is left blank and there is no colophon, which seems to show that the author meant to continue this part as time permitted.

Prologue en la v^{me} partie 162

Après lestat de papes et emperours
Et maintes choses quavindrent en leurs jours
Bien appartient pour mieulx loeure parfaire
Des cardinalz et autres estas Retraire.

Treats first of the cardinals, then of other estates, and on 162 b inserts a story of Udo, Abp of Magdeburg¹, in different metre, which the author had composed previously.

“Du quel histoire je vous declareray
De mot a mot comme je la Rimay Deuant ceste œuvre.”

It begins :

En lan de lincarnacion
Que fut mille .l. mains
Otho tiers par Election
Regnant empereur des Romains.

Continues with discussion of the priesthood and all ranks of life, and then proceeds to the Virtues and Vices.

On 185 b is the Visio de spiritu Guidonis. This is followed by the coming of Antichrist, the Fifteen Signs, the Last Judgment, the pains of Hell, the glories of Heaven.

Ending f. 191 b :

Pour mes torfais (forfais?) que dieu pardon men face
Et en la fin den acquerir sa grace. Amen.

Comment lacteur si rend graces. a nostre seigneur.

Je Rendz cy grace Reuerence et amour,
En toute honneur
Hui tout premier a la diuinite
Au pere au filz nostre mediatour.
Nostre seigneur, etc.

This is an acrostic which gives the name of the author, viz. :

Iehan Bauduyn De Rousierres Aulz Sallines.

The last line is :

Se leurs demande pardon de mes mesdis.

Expl. istud opus. deo gratias.

It seems to me most likely that the book as we have it is a portion of a Psalter, the text of the Psalms having occupied quires i–xvii (204 leaves).

The Kalendar is an interesting one and very evidently belongs to St Augustine's, Canterbury.

There are two classes of illustrations in the book: first, the historiated initials to some of the Hymns: second, the pictures of the Passion. The first are really very rough in execution, but have fine burnished gold grounds. The second are in part far superior in drawing, but may still be described as rather dry and stiff. A second artist appears at f. 50. Both series are undoubtedly English.

There are also line-fillings in red and blue: the fish (as usual) is the commonest feature.

The initials shall be first enumerated.

1. f. 9. Domine miserere. A monk in blue (for black) kneeling to Christ, who is beardless and holds book.
2. f. 24 b. O lux beata trinitas. Italian Trinity. The Father supporting before Him the crucified Son, over whose head is the Dove. Its wings touch the mouth of the Father and of the Son.
3. f. 35 b. Conditor alme. Christ facing R. with hands raised towards the sky, in which are sun, moon, and four stars.
4. f. 37 b. Christe redemptor. In front the swaddled Child, and heads of ox and ass. Above, Mary reclines, head to L. In C. stands full-face a woman (the midwife) with joined hands. Joseph sits on R.
5. f. 39. Hostis herodes. Adoration of the Magi: Virgin and Child seated on R.
6. f. 39 b. Quod chorus natum. Presentation. Joseph on L. with doves. Virgin supporting the Child in blue robe on altar: Symeon on R. with cloth over his hands.
7. f. 40. Summi largitor. Christ stands on roof of church on L., with book: on R. below, the devil, dusky, with four wings, holding something up. On R. behind him a crown and diadem.
8. f. 43. Vexilla regis. Three men in pink, blue and scarlet, carry three flags, scarlet, red, and blue, to R.
9. f. 81 b. Pie colamus. Mary Magdalene facing R. (with two right hands!) holds up a round-bodied green vessel with a cover.
10. f. 82 b. O quam glorifica. The Virgin and Christ seated. He crowns her.
11. f. 84. Tibi Christe splendor. Michael, robed, with shield, thrusts spear into the mouth of a gaily-coloured dragon.

The pictures of the Passion have grounds alternately pink and blue, usually studded with circular groups of white dots, and sometimes with lozenges of burnished gold. The frames are in colour, vermilion, green, etc., variously divided and patterned, with square patches of gold or silver at the corners. Sometimes a small space at the bottom of a column is filled in with a panel of animals or decorative pattern.

The text, in French, is, as I have said, descriptive of the pictures. The first five paragraphs begin Ici apres est depeint coment, etc. After this the formula is simply Coment.

I will shortly indicate, without elaborate description, the subjects of the pictures.

- f. 45 b. 1. Ruler on L., two Jews with stones, whom he addresses. Christ and apostles go through a door on R.
- f. 46. 2. Lazarus dead in bed, his sisters weep. Three friends enter.
3. Lazarus borne to the tomb, and laid in the tomb.
4. Lazarus raised. Mary is unbinding his feet.
5. Five Jews consulting.
6. Christ and apostles enter the city Ephraim.
- f. 47. 7. The supper at Bethany. Mary wipes Christ's feet with her hair.
8. Entry into Jerusalem.
9. Jew with wicked dark face gives money to Judas : other Jews on R.
10. The Last Supper.
- f. 48. 11. Jesus, girt with towel, washes Peter's feet.
12. The sop given to Judas : a little devil flutters into his mouth.
13, 14. Jesus addresses the Apostles. Two very similar pictures.
- f. 49. 15. He leads them to the gate of Gethsemane.
16. He leads the three Apostles : they sleep : He prays : angel above.
17. He finds them sleeping.
18. The Betrayal. Malchus on L.
19. Jesus led away. The Apostles on L. go.
20. Peter outside the house. Jesus before Annas. The wicked Jews have bluish faces.
Here two leaves are gone. The text which remains on 49 b shows that the first subject was Peter questioned by the maid.
- f. 50. 21. Three men. On R. Judas hangs on a tree and cuts open his stomach with a knife.
At this point begins the work of the better artist. Hitherto the work has been by the painter of the initials.
22. Pilate sends Jesus away. Jesus before Herod.
23. Narrow panel at bottom, with fox and cock.
24. Herod and councillors. Jesus in white robe before Pilate.
25. Narrow panel. Peacock and hedgehog.
26. Jesus before Pilate (rejected in favour of Barabbas).
27. Barabbas brought out of prison (tower on L.). Jews on R., pleased.
- f. 51. 28. Jesus scourged. Pilate on R.
29. Jesus (standing) crowned with thorns and mocked.
30. Jesus smitten on the head.
31. Jesus stripped of the purple robe. Jesus smitten by two men.
32. He is led to the Cross, which a mailed man raises from the ground.
33. He bears the Cross. Two men lead Him : one, with winged headdress, carries the hammer. Two men in mail follow : one has the nails.
34. He is on the Cross (green) : one supports His body while another nails His feet. The thieves on T-shaped crosses, over which their arms are bound. A little devil crouches on the bad thief's cross on R.
- 52. 35. This and the following pictures of the Crucifixion are taller. Jesus and the thieves on crosses. Soldiers on L., Jews on R. : one with scroll, Vere fili dei erat este.

- f. 52. 36. The same scene. A man on a ladder nails the title I. N. R. I. upon the Cross. Below on L. soldiers, on R. a Jew speaks to Pilate, seated.
 37. Similar. Sun and moon in sky. Soldiers cast lots with dice for the robes.
- f. 53. 38. Similar. The Virgin swoons, supported by John. Two soldiers on R.
 39. Similar. The Virgin, John and another on L. On R. the sponge is offered.
 40. Similar. Longinus, robed on L., pierces the side. Two men with mallets break the legs of the thieves.
 41. Jesus on the Cross. On L. the Virgin sits, John consoles her. On R. Joseph speaks to Pilate, seated.
 42. Deposition. The Virgin on L. supports the arms: Joseph supports the body.
- f. 54. 43. The Entombment. Joseph, Nicodemus, John and the Virgin. Trees behind. The tomb is of dark marble with oval apertures in the side.
 44. Joseph and Nicodemus lay the lid on the tomb.
 45. The Harrowing of Hell. A devil blows a horn.
 46. Narrow panel with dragons.
 47. Two Jews address Pilate.
 48. The Resurrection. Christ assisted from the tomb by the Divine Hand in a cloud. Three soldiers sleep in front.
- f. 55. 49. Angel seated on the tomb with palm addresses the three Maries. On R. they recline. Four soldiers sleeping.
 50. Magdalene looks into the tomb. On R. she addresses Peter and John. Four soldiers sleeping.
 51. Magdalene speaks to Peter and John. On R. they consult. Tomb, and four sleeping soldiers in front.
 52. Two angels on the ends of the tomb. Magdalene in C. wrings her hands. Four soldiers sleeping.
- f. 56. 53. Magdalene addresses Jesus. Tomb and tree on L.
 54. She kneels to Him. He holds scroll, Noli me tangere.
 55. She comes to the Apostles, who are seated in a house.
 56. Christ (in C.) and the two disciples going to Emmaus: all have staves.
 57. They address Him. He stands on R. as meaning to leave them.
- f. 57. 58. They enter the house. On R. the supper: each disciple holds a fragment of the bread: Christ blesses. Above, the feet of Christ ascending.
 59. The two disciples enter to the Apostles seated in a house.
 60. The three Maries. Christ in C. appears and blesses them: on R. they retire.
 61. The Apostles seated: the three Maries enter on R.
- f. 58. 62. Jews seated: the four soldiers, excited, address them.
 63. One of the Jews pours gold money out of a shallow dish into the surcoat of the foremost of the soldiers, which he holds up for the purpose.
 64. The soldiers on horseback in a gateway talk to Jews on R. They are spreading the report that Christ's body was stolen.
 65. In house with closed doors. Christ appears to Apostles, seated.

- f. 59. 67. Same as 65. Christ shows His hands to the Apostles.
 68. Christ and Apostles at table: two Apostles on L. bring fish and honeycomb.
 69. Christ breathes on the seated Apostles.

- f. 59. 70. In the house. Thomas speaks to the other Apostles.
 71. Incredulity of Thomas. Christ on L.
- f. 60. 72. Christ about to leave the house. Thomas kneels. Apostles on R.
 73. Panel of ornament.
 74. Christ on shore. Peter wading. Apostles in ship.
- f. 61. 75. Apostles in ship. Peter on shore draws in net. Christ on R.
 76. At table. Christ in C, Apostle with cup on L. In front another cooks two fish on a gridiron.
 77. Christ on L. Peter kneels. Apostles on R.
 78. Apostles kneel. Christ on R.
 79. Virgin in C. Apostles R. and L. Feet of ascending Christ above.
 80. The Apostles seated. The Dove in cloud above.
 81. John leads the Virgin to R. On R. under arch, an altar and hanging lamp. (He takes her to the temple.)
- f. 62. 82. Virgin seated in midst of Apostles. On L. an angel with blank scroll. (The Apostles are bidden to disperse and preach.)
 83. John and Virgin seated under arch in C. On R. and L. Apostles walk away.
 84. On L. John and the Virgin worshipping before an altar. On R. they visit some seated women (their relations). "Mes bien creit hom ke acune fiez ala ele od seint Johan uisiter acuns de ces parensz."
 85. On L. an angel gives a palm to the Virgin. On R. she prays under a tree.
- f. 63. 86. John and Virgin with palm meet the Apostles on R.
 87. Christ between angels with candles meets the Apostles on R.

 90. The Virgin in bed: two angels at her head. One with censer. Christ holds her soul on His arm. Apostles on R. weep.
- f. 64. 91. In front three women wash the body, laid on trestles. Behind, the bier with pall and Apostles reading over it.
 92. The bier borne by Apostles. Two Jews, one falls, one clings to the bier. Above, in a cloud, angel with sword.
 93. The bier borne by Apostles. A mitred priest clings to it.
 94. " " " Two Jews kneel to Peter, who holds out the palm to them.
 95. Panel of ornament.
- f. 65. 96. The bier borne by Apostles: two Jews fall blinded.
 97. " " " no other figures.
 98. The bier set down: candles about it. Apostles read and sing.
 99. The body laid in green marble tomb with quatrefoil on side. Peter sprinkles holy water.
 100. The Apostles seated with books in front of the tomb.
 101. The tomb in front. Behind on L. Christ, attended by two angels, meets the Apostles.
 102. Panel of ornament.
- f. 66. 103. The tomb, the lid leaning against it. The Virgin sits up and Christ embraces her. Angels and Apostles.
 104. Christ and angel on L. He blesses the Apostles.

- f. 66. 105. Christ and the Virgin seated in a mandorla borne by four angels (two above in clouds, two below).

The last paragraph of text is:

Coment apres ce ke nostre dame uint au ciel nostre seignor la corona e les angles deu firent a la dame grant ioie.

My impression, derived from the position of this series of pictures, between the Maundy Thursday and Easter Hymns, is that it was meant for the owner of the book (an Abbot perhaps) to study during the long services of Good Friday and Easter Eve.

The book was shown at the Burlington Fine Arts Club in 1908: no. 49 in the Catalogue. Mr S. C. Cockerell distinguishes the work of three artists in the pictures.

263. ANTIPHONER.

Vellum, $27\frac{3}{4} \times 18\frac{3}{8}$, ff. 87, five lines of music (5-line stave) and text to a page. Cent. xv late, in an immense hand, written in Spain.

Binding of wooden boards covered with skin, with massive metal ornaments.

Collation: 1⁸-11⁸ (wants 8).

There are a large number of initials, alternately blue on red and red on purple: the ground of each consists of a very elaborate panel of pen-work, skilfully done.

A similar service-book, larger but much mutilated, is at King's College.

264. HORAE (LADY MARGARET).

Vellum, $8\frac{1}{4} \times 6$, ff. 1 + 179, 15 lines to a page. Cent. xv: black ink, Gothic hand with a slight slope.

On f. 12 b (end of the Kalendar) in the lower margin in pale ink is written the inscription which gives to the book its principal interest:

my good lady Shyrley pray for me that gevythe yow thys booke
y hertely pray yow | Margaret | modyr to the kynge.

Lady Shirley was wife to Richard Shirley, bailiff of the Lady Margaret's Manor at Ware.

Though the book thus undoubtedly belonged to Lady Margaret, it cannot have been written for her: it is of too early a date for that. It belongs, moreover, to the diocese of Coutances, and has no English additions.

In the Kalendar, which, as noted, is entirely in blue and gold and has very few feasts marked, the most noteworthy entries seem to be the following (italicized entries are in gold in the MS.):

Jan.	Hylaïre, Mor , Anthonie , Iulien.
Feb.	Bride. 16. Juliane.
Ap. 22.	Oportune. 28. Vital.
May 19.	Yues. 26. Augustin. 31. Pernelle.
June 3.	Marcel. 16. cir et Julitte. 19. gerues et prothes.

Aug. 11.	Taurin. 25. Loys. 30. Fiacre.
Sept. 16.	Flessel. 21. Lo . 30. Lez reliques de coustances.
Oct.	Francoys, Denis . 16. Michiel. 20. Les xi mille uierges.

In the Litany: Martyrs end with Julian, Blasius, Gervase, Prothase, Saturninus, Anthoninus, Clarus. Confessors with Laudus, Thaurinus, Benedict. Virgins include Genovefa, Radegundis, Brigida.

The decoration is of very fine quality: drawing very crisp and clear: colouring very bright and delicate. Borders are of line and leaf work as a basis, with leaves in gold and insertions of conventional foliage, and strawberries, etc., in colour. There are partial borders on all pages which contain a small picture or the beginning of a psalm, prayer, or the like, and full borders on the pages which have large pictures.

The following pictures remain:

Sequences of the Gospels. f. 13. 1. Initial. John, in dark red, on island writing: devil on L. about to steal his inkhorn: eagle, nimbed, on R. Red ground with gold flourishing.

2. Luke, in blue, seated trimming his pen, book on desk. Ox with scroll, S. Luc. Ground as no. 1.

3. Matthew writing, in scarlet robe over blue. Angel in blue kneels holding ink-bottle and pen-case. Blue and gold ground.

4. Mark, in scarlet, writing. Lion with scroll, S. Marc. Blue ground, starred.

Hours of the Virgin. f. 28. 5. Matins. The Annunciation. The background is a low wall with massive battlements hung with crimson arras with gold pattern. The Virgin in blue kneeling on R. and turning to the angel: the Dove, very small, seen at the top of her nimbus. Gabriel, in gold robe, with scroll, ave—tecum. Three pale yellow-green trees, and hills, seen over the wall. Above in the sky the Father, half-length.

Full border, with a fine frame to the picture of gold with red and blue foliage on it.

6. Prime. f. 51. The Stable. The Child, swaddled, in wooden crib on R. The ox and ass's heads seen over it. The Virgin in blue over lake kneels at His feet. Joseph in rough dark cloak over scarlet stands behind her holding a lighted candle. Straws lie about the floor. The stable is interestingly drawn.

7. Sext. f. 62. The Adoration of the Magi. The Virgin with the swaddled Child seated on L. in the stable. All the kings are in long robes with ermine or fur linings.

As usual, one kneels bare-headed and offers a cup full of gold. The other two stand, in their crowns, holding their offerings.

The Star shines through a hole in the stable roof. The stable has been partly hung with arras.

8. None. f. 66. Presentation. The Virgin in blue with white kerchief kneels holding the swaddled Child. Joseph and the maid with the doves, both nimbed, on L. Symeon in a scarlet robe and darker red head-dress on R. of the altar.

9. Penitential Psalms. f. 88. David in gold robe lined with ermine over blue, crowned, kneels facing L. in landscape: his harp by him. God in the sky, half-length. Castle and windmill on hill in the distance.

10. Office of the Dead. Dilexi. f. 120. In C. foreground a young man in scarlet tunic lined with fur, and blue hose, etc., his hair (or head-dress) spreading very wide, in the form of gold leaves. He looks to L., where Death, a skeleton-corpse in a shroud holding two darts, is smiting him on the breast with one of them. On R. lies his nude corpse in a coffin.

Above, his soul, nude, in air. Two angels in silver take it by the arms: one is armed with a long cross-spear. Two black devils seize the legs of the soul.

The ground and trees are yellow-green.

The figures of Death, the youth, the corpse, the angels, demons and soul have all blank scrolls¹.

Another Coutances Horae (Fitzwilliam MS. 61) has a similar picture for the Office of the Dead.

11. Verba mea. f. 128. Funeral in choir. Mourners in black on R. Coffin with scarlet pall and blue and gold cross in C. Clergy in black copes on L. The altar has black riddles and a black frontal and dossal, each bearing a red cross with fleurs-de-lys terminations.

12. Memoriae. f. 166. The text. St John Baptist in blue over gold hair robe holding lamb. Red ground with gold lines.

13. f. 168. St George in scarlet tunic and plate-armour on white horse on the back of the dragon. The Princess on L. holds a cord tied to its neck. Ground as no. 12.

No text has been written: the leaf has only this small square picture.

14. f. 175. Seven Requests. Large. The Judge, crowned with thorns and showing His wounds, on the rainbow. The globe with trees, land and water under His feet. One angel on L. blows trumpet. Two above on R. and L. hold cross with title, and column with scourge. Below, six people rise from graves in the green grass.

265. MANUELIS MOSCHOPULI EROTEMATA.

Paper, $9\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{3}{4}$, ff. 1 + 82 + 1, 23 lines to a page. Cent. xv, in a small, fairly good hand.

Presented in 1889 by Mrs Churchill Babington, widow of Churchill Babington, B.D., sometime Fellow and Disney Professor of Archæology (1865-1880).

Vellum flyleaves; two bits of a document in Greek (xv) written on one side only, beginning:

ἐπεὶ ὁ οἰκεῖος τῇ βασιλεῖ μου παρακομ... κυρ μανουήλ ὁ σεργοπουλος (?) ἐφάνη...

Binding: stamped leather over wooden boards (Italian?).

A catalogue or sale number 2440, and a note ("2 rare and ancient Greek MSS. together £5. 5s.") is pencilled on the flyleaf.

At the bottom of f. 1 (xv) is:

Iste liber est mon. s. iustine de pad. deputatus usui dicti monasterii largitus per d. palantem de strocis. (Added: Non debet uendi.)

Collation: 1 flyleaf a^8-i^8 ia^2 , 1 flyleaf.

The Mortuary Roll of Amphelisa Prioress of Lillecherch in Kent (cir. 1265—1298).

This Roll has been described by C. E. Sayle, M.A., for the Cambridge Antiquarian Society, Proceedings, vol. x, 1902-3, pp. 383—410: he gives a table of the 372 houses whose names appear on the roll.

The Brief at the head of the roll is as follows:

Uniuersis Christi fidelibus presentem paginam inspecturis Humilis ancillarum Christi conuentus ecclesie S. marie de lillecherch salutem in domino sempiternam. Post imbres lacrimarum et fletuum inundationem quam in transsitu karissime domine et matris nostre piissime Amphelise priorisse uidimus. que uocante domino quinto decimo kal. With no. 272 ends the medieval portion of the collection. The manuscripts now to be described are of the sixteenth and following centuries, and are for the most part of very slight importance. In no case do they require such detailed treatment as the earlier books. My plan has been to weed them out from Dr Cowie's catalogue, preserving the order in which they occur in that catalogue and upon the shelves, and to incorporate, at the end of each shelf-division, the volumes not described by Cowie which I found actually there. To these I have added brief notes of manuscript volumes preserved in other parts of the Library. I have designedly passed over anything which could be classed more properly as a College muniment, e.g., early manuscript copies of the Statutes; and also the Oriental manuscripts, with the exception of the three Hebrew manuscripts, A. 1—3, which have a special bearing upon medieval scholarship. I have, somewhat inconsistently and, I believe, inadvertently, described among the medieval manuscripts one book of late date (no. 203, G. 36). My notes upon the late manuscripts are very largely derived from Cowie's catalogue; but I have looked at all the books, and added details where I thought they were required.

Antiquity reuiued.

Settunge forth the anciente and primary habitacions originalls and decents of the Nobillity Barony and Gentery in the Realme of England and Principallity of Wales accordinge to the seuerall countyes where in they were first seated with diuers other notes and obseruations of antiquity.

Gathered out of the anciente recordes and Presearues of honour

By Richard Butcher gent.

Honor thy father and thy mother etc.

A good drawing of the author Aetatis suae 61, A.D. 1648, is prefixed to H. 3, with some verses attached to it, written by a lady.

Part I contains accounts of the Welsh, Northern, and some other counties.

Part II (bound with Part I) begins with Wiltshire, contains most of the Southern and Eastern Counties and ends with London. Camden is probably much used throughout, and Stow certainly in the account of London. There is a long section on monuments in Old St Paul's which may possibly contain unknown matter.

Part III (H. 4) treats of Scotland, Ireland, and the "smauler Islandes" and ends with disquisitions on Roman Britain, and lists of nobles who came with the Conqueror etc.

Richard Butcher, town clerk of Stamford, published a history of Stamford in 1646; reprinted (with additions by the author) in 1727 by R. Peck.

Three Letters of King Charles II in his own handwriting (from Brussels Dec. 1658, June 1659).
A receipt for £100 signed 'Charles R.' (1660).

Paper, 8 × 6, well written.

This Copy was made by the author's directions for the Library of St John's, and seems from Mr Bedford's collation to be the corrected copy of the former. It appears from the Preface to the printed edition that the Editor got into trouble with the Barwick family for having ventured to use both MSS., the family considering this to be the genuine copy and not the former. See Pref. to Eng. Ed. of Barwick's Life (1724).

278. A Collection of Letters to and from Dean Barwick, as follows: H. 10

Statuta Ecclesiae Menevensis.

Inc.: Haec sunt acta et statuta in Ecclesia Meneven. per dominum Gervasium Meneven. episcopum et eiusdem Ecclesiae capitulum anno gr. mill. cc^{mo} xxiiij^{to}.

The documents run to the end of the xvth century (1499) and are followed by the Letters Patent of 35 Hen. VIII, transferring the College of Abergwilly to Christ's College, Brecon. This document is copied from another source.

"This book was given to St John's College by Thomas Watson, D.D., sometime Fellow of the said College, and consecrated Bishop of St David's 1687. The same reverend person gave the College the patronage of two livings, Brinkley and Fulbourn St Vigors, both in the Diocese of Ely, together with some coins and medalls of good value."

"He has since given the patronage of Brandsburton. Com. Ebor."

"I have compared this Copy with the original statutes in several particular chapters, and find it to be exactly taken." T. Baker.

"This MS. is very valuable, for the original or most authentic copy from whence it was taken, though it were wrote on parchment, yet was so eaten with moisture or wasted with age when I saw it, that it cannot be preserved long, and can hardly ever be copied again with equal certainty and exactness." T. Baker.

K. 18

Folio, vellum, with paintings of coats of arms.

Full-page pictures of Lady Margaret, Charles I, Bishop Williams.

The arms of the following persons:—John Williams, bishop of Lincoln; Sir Ralph Hare; Thos. Morton, bishop of Durham; Henry Wriothesley, Earl of Southampton; William Howard, baron Naworth; Valentine Carey, bishop of Exeter; David Dolben, bishop of Bangor; John lord Carie of Hunsdon; Viscount Rocheford, son of the Earl of Dover; John Hackett, bishop of Lichfield and Coventry; Peter Gunning, bishop of Ely; Thomas Wentworth, heir to the earl of Strafford; Sir Robert Heath, Attorney General to king Charles; Edward Benlowes, Esq.; Robert Mason, LL.D.; Robert Metcalf, D.D., Hebrew Professor; Joseph Thurston; Griffith Bodurda; Allen Henman; Tobias Rustat; Cadwallader Jones; Samuel Howlett; Lambrochius Thomas, dean of Chichester; William Lloyd, bishop of Norwich; Richard Hill, and another without name.

There is abundance of room for a hundred or so more. It is probably this book to which the following entry refers, Harl. MSS. 7047. "To S^r Crashaw of Pemb. for drawing the pictures in Book of Benefactors to the Library. Jul. 11, 1635. £13. 6s. 8d."—See Hartshorne, Book Rarities, p. 333.

The full-page pictures are remarkable. That of Lady Margaret is copied from the well-known portrait in the Hall. Those of Charles I and Bishop Williams are on canvas pasted on to the vellum. See the account and extracts in Mayor's Baker 338 and 1107.

364. The Complaint of Henrie Duke of Buckingham, by T. S. L. 7

MS. folio, paper.

This is the first part of the 'Mirrour for Magistrates,' by Thomas lord Sackville of Buckhurst, made earl of Dorset by James I, 1604; born 1536, died 1608. Of that work lord Sackville of Buckhurst wrote only a preface and this introduction in verse. It was highly esteemed in queen Elizabeth's time, says Anthony Wood. It was completed by Baldwine, Higgons, Ferrers, and Churchyard. See the edition of it published by R. Nicholls, 1610.

365. The Epistle of Paul to Philemon, in Slavonic, English, and German, with some particulars of the Slavonic language, by Conrad Glesingki, dedicated to Bishop Gunning. L. 8

MS. small 4to, paper. "D. D. Peter Gunning."

At the end is a list of persons who rewarded the author for his pains. It is a curious account of his successful foraging on the benevolent of the day.

366. Parson's Leycester's Commonwealth, 1584. L. 11

MS. small 4to, paper. "Ex dono T. Baker." "Ex dono dignissimi viri Joannis Bagford noti in Historia Typographica."

367. The Order of the King's Coronation, as it was observed Feb. 2, 1625, at the Coronation of Kinge Charles our most dread and gracious Sovereign, at Westminstre, by George Abbott, Archbyshop of Canterburye. William Laud, Bishop of S. David's, supplied the roome of the Deane of Westminstre. "The daye was very faire, and the ceremonye was performed without anye interruption, and in verye goode order." It is full of Archbishop Laud's notes in his own hand, being the very same book that he used on that occasion.

The forme of Dedication of a Church or Chapel.

The forme of Consecration of a Church-yard. L. 12

MS. 12mo, paper, gilt edged. "Donum optimi præsulis Gulielmi Lloyd, Ep. Norwic." Mr Baker's writing. There is also a note of Archbishop Sancroft's about the Coronation Service in the Ordo Romanus.

On this manuscript and also on 369, 370 see the volume edited by the Rev. Chr. Wordsworth for the Henry Bradshaw Society on the Coronation of K. Charles I.

- 368. Forms of prayer and ritual extracts by Archbishop Sancroft, in his own handwriting. L. 13

MS. 12mo, paper. D. D. Gul. Lloyd, Ep. Norwic.

With the exception of the first article (the Order of Coronation 1625) the whole contents appear to be taken from printed sources. They consist mainly of Elizabethan and Caroline occasional Forms of Prayer.

- 369. The Forme of the Coronation Service. L. 14

MS. 8vo, paper.

This is the copy that archbishop Sancroft used at the coronation of king James II and his queen consort. Written in the archbishop's own hand.

See above on 367. It is MS. "Sa" in the publication referred to (p. xxx).

- 370. The same as 367. L. 15

It is full of notes in archbishop Sancroft's writing, small 8vo paper, well bound. Mr Baker thinks it is probably the same as that which the king himself used when he was crowned.

See above on 367. It is MS. K (l.c., p. xiv etc.).

- 371. Forms of Consecration of Churches, Chapels, and Churchyards, a collection in Archbishop Sancroft's writing. L. 16

MS. 12mo, paper.

A list of the forms (all of which are of cent. xvii) is prefixed. The latest dated one is of 1662.

See Dr J. Wickham Legge, English orders for consecrating Churches in the xviith Century, Henry Bradshaw Society, p. x.

- 372. Sir George Carew's observations concerning the State and Government of France under Henry IV, 1609. L. 18

- 373. Vita Riti e Costumi de gl' Hebrei, in brevissimo compendio ma amplamente raccolti e descritti da Leone Modena Hebreo da Venetia. L. 19

MS. small 4to, paper. "Boswell." "Ex dono authoris, Sept. 1628."

It was published, Paris, 1637, under the title, "Historia degli Riti Hebræici, dove si ha breve et total relatione di tutta la vita, costumi, et riti, et osservanze degl' Hebrei di questi tempi, di Leone Modena Rabi Hebreo di Venetia," with a letter from Giacomo Gaffarelli to Leo Mutiniensis, another Venetian Rabbi. Leo Modena dedicated his book "all' Illustrissimo ed Excellentissimo Signore mio Padrone colendissimo il signore Presidente Claudio Malliero, consigliere del Re Christianissimo, e suo ambasciatore alla serenissima Republica di Venetia." I¹ cannot conceive how this came to the possession of the College, unless it be one of Dr Ferrari's books.

- 374. The Life and manner of the death of that most holy Prelate and Constant Martyr, John Fisher, Bishop of Rochester and Cardinal of the Holy Church of Rome. L. 22

MS. folio, paper, pp. 111. D. D. Chester Pern, Coll. D. Joan. A.M.

"The conclusion of this Life (from another MS.) is printed by Hearne in Peter Langtoft, pp. 551-560." Note on flyleaf. This copy appears to be of cent. xvii.

Nos. 375-383 are not in Cowie's Catalogue.

375-382 are manuscripts by Jeremiah Markland. See also 342.

- 375. L. 24

387. Præfatio, quod Papistæ falso sibi vendicant Catholicario nomine.

Reprobatio nugalium responsionum Marci Antonii Constantii ad objectiones orthodoxorum.

M. 4

MS. small 4to, paper. Hen. C. S.

Marcus Antonius Constantius was the name under which Stephen Gardiner, bishop of Winchester, wrote. The title of his book is "Confutatio Cavillationum, quibus Sacrosanctum Eucharistiæ Sacramentum ab impiis Capernaitis impeti solet, autore M. A. C. Theologo Lovaniensi." Paris, 4to, 1552. There is a copy in the College Library, formerly Mr Baker's, Qq. 10. 1, lettered on the back "Steph^s. Winton."

388. R. P. Santarelli de Septem Sacramentis et de Sacrificio missæ.

M. 5

MS. small 4to, paper. Hen. C. S.

These last five manuscripts seem to have been made by the same amanuensis. 1, 2, 3, 5 seem to have been the subjects of lectures, &c. in some Spanish University, and were probably the property of an English Romanist exile.

389. Fr. Francisci Titelmanni Expositio in Librum Job. M. 6

MS. 8vo, paper. Thos. C. S.

It has the date 1534. "Explicit Expositio fratris Francisci Titelmanni Hassellensis, in lib. Job, compilata et conscripta per me fratrem Jodocum Anthonium Sol, a tracto veteri van oltricht in conuentu minorum lovanii an^o dñi. 1534."

390. Confessio Saxonica.

M. 7

MS. small 4to, paper. T. C. S. with the names "Thomas Sackevyle."
"G. Burde." "W. Crashawe, 1610."

The title was Confessio Augustana, but Saxonica has been written in a later hand. It certainly is the same confession as that called 'Confessio Saxonica' in the Corpus et Syntagma Confessionum, Genev. 4to, 1612, where it is described as 'Saxonica Confessio Fidei, quæ scripta fuit anno domini 1551, in Synodo Wittebergæ ubi Saxonicarum et Misnicarum Ecclesiarum Pastores et Academiæ Doctores convenerant: qui omnes ei subscripserunt tanquam Augustanæ Confessionis repetitæ, Tridentinæ congregationi proponendæ. Eam comprobarunt Illustrissimi Principes Brandenburgici atque generosissimi Comites a Mansfelt et Argentinenses Ministri: atque Pastores et Ductores Ecclesiarum Pomeraniæ Scriptis Confessionis annexis. Eadem ab aliis Ecclesiis comprobata; et ab Ecclesiis Polonicis in ipsarum Consensu vel Conciliatione Commendata.'

391. Ὁμολογία τῆς ὀρθοδόξου πίστεως ὑπὸ τῶν γραικῶν ποιηθησομένη προστάγματι τοῦ ἁγιωτάτου Κυρίου ἡμῶν Κυρίου Γρηγορίου Πάπα ιγ'. ἐκδοθεῖσα.

M. 8

MS. 12mo, paper, pp. 18 written. Ex dono Petri Gunning, S. T. P. 1684.
"Tobias Goodwin."

Pope Gregory XIII. founded a College at Rome for Greeks, amongst other foreign nations, and this seems probably to have been the Confession they subscribed on their entrance.

392. Certain Slandrous Speeches against the present Estate of the Church of England, published to the people by the Precisians, with the particular causes that have so stirred them, and blasphemous and seditious positions held by them, with refutations of the same, and an Index of Browne's heresies, with their refutation.

M. 9

MS. small 4to, paper, ff. cir. 100, well written.

Nos. 393, 394 are not in Cowie's Catalogue.

393.

MS. 4to, paper.

Allsop, a gremial in the years 1685–1688.

On Cicero, Ancient History, Law, etc. with some declamations. On p. 85, a note of his expenses: 114, catalogue of books: 117, The Maid's Deniall: 158, experiments. About half the volume is blank.

- 412. A Common-place Book of Theology, formerly the property of Dr Berry. S. 18

MS. 4to, paper. "D. D. T. Baker."

At the end are copies of the University Orations, &c., beginning from the Installation of the Duke of Monmouth as Chancellor.

A discussion on Privateers occurs early in the volume.

After the Speeches and Letters are some notes of admission, and of questions disputed in the Schools.

Much of the volume is blank.

- 413. A Common-place Book of Theology. S. 20

MS. 4to, paper.

This is very well written, and appears to contain some passages of interest in the present day. It has no name or date.

About half the volume is filled with writing: almost wholly investigations of Theological problems: with a good deal as to Non-conformity, apparently by a Non-conformist.

- 414. A MS. Collection (formerly the property of Dr Lloyd, Bishop of Norwich, who left it with Mr Baker in trust for the College,) of Papers relating to the non-jurors. S. 21

ff. ii-iv are occupied with a list of the charters (148). ff. v, vi are blank.

The text of the charters follows. The first is Will. de Becco.

The first dated is no. 8 (Hugonis de Somerfelde) of 1215.

The last charter (no. 148) is followed by a memorandum of 1275 of an agreement between Thomas prior of Christ Church, Canterbury and William, Master of the Hospital. It ends imperfectly f. 66 b.

There are some marginal notes of cent. xv.

The Hospital was granted to the College by the procurement of Bishop Fisher, 7 Henry 8. The Cartulary is mentioned by Tanner, Notitia Monastica s.v.

Other miscellaneous manuscripts not described by me are :

AB. 2.

Fourteen manuscripts by Sir J. F. W. Herschel, Astronomical and other. Th. Mangey. Notitia ecclesiastica primitivae Ecclesiae: tribus libris comprehensa.

Bb.

Copy of the original charter of Sedbergh School.

H. 6.

Manuscript of Mr W. F. Smith's translation of Rabelais.

Several copies of the Statutes of the College : with one of these is bound up a copy of the Statutes of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

Several volumes of notes for Courses of Lectures.
